US missiles hit ships with Indian crew. Now, Trump blames Iran

Mum On Deaths Of Indian Sailors In The Attacks

Chidanand Rajghatta | TNN

Washington: US President Donald Trump Friday implicated Iran in alleged drone attacks on ships with Indian crew in the Strait of Hormuz amid growing anger in New Delhi over American missile strikes against vessels that killed three Indian sailors.

"Also, their (Iran's) totally rebuffed Drone attack last night against Indian Ships leaving the Hormuz Strait is TOTALLY UNACCEPTABLE," Trump wrote on his social media platform. The US president did not address the death of Indian sailors.

US Navy and Centcom forces have attacked multiple tankers with Indian crew in the Gulf of Oman in recent days, including a strike on Palau-flagged MT Settebello that killed three Indians.

US forces also struck MT Marivex, a "sanctioned tanker", and 24 Indian crew were rescued. No details were available on the strike on MV Jalveer, which also had an Indian complement.

Agreed-upon US-Iran peace deal ready: Sharif

US and Iran have agreed to the wording of an agreement to end their war, Pakistan's prime minister Shehbaz Sharif said on Friday, a development that Tehran and top US officials also signalled.

Both sides have reached a "final, agreed upon text", Sharif said, adding, "peace has never been this close as it is now". On X, Iranian foreign minister Abbas Araghchi said an agreement "has never been closer". US President Trump shared Araghchi's post on his own social media.

While neither US nor Iran gave details of the proposed deal, three regional officials said it is expected to pave the way for reopening the Strait of Hormuz, phased lifting of sanctions, and release of frozen Iranian assets.

It had hit $170 at the time of writing, at which point the implied company valuation is roughly $2.2 trillion. Families mark 1 yr of AI plane crash; India misses probe report deadline

Manju V | TNN

Mumbai: Aircraft Accident Investigation Bureau (AAIB) released no report on the London-bound Air India 171 crash on Friday, the first anniversary of the tragedy in Ahmedabad, Gujarat, that claimed 260 lives. It thus missed International Civil Aviation Organisation's 12-month deadline for a final or interim report.

The plane had crashed into a hostel complex in Ahmedabad on June 12, 2025.

Ministry of civil aviation Friday said significant progress has been made in the examination and analysis of aircraft systems, flight recorder data, and engine-related components.

"The evidence gathered and the results of various examinations are currently being analysed in a comprehensive and integrated manner… Additional technical evaluations and specialist examination, wherever considered necessary, will continue to be undertaken to ensure that all findings and conclusions are supported by verified evidence and sound scientific analysis," the ministry said.

For decades, India had honoured the 12-month deadline for fatal airline accident reports, but since the 2010 Air India Express Mangalore accident, that trend has changed. The final report into that was released in 2012, and the final report into the 2020 Air India Express crash in Calicut was released 13 months after the accident.

NTA will give 15 extra minutes for June 21 NEET

New Delhi: National Test Agency (NTA) on Friday announced a set of candidate-friendly changes for the June 21 NEET-UG 2026 retest, extending the overall examination window from 180 minutes to 195 minutes and increasing the number of rough-work pages in the question booklet.

NTA said the exam will be held from 2pm to 5.15pm. The additional 15 minutes will accommodate mandatory formalities such as attendance signing and other invigilation procedures.

Based on feedback received over the years, the agency said the revised schedule would ensure candidates get the full intended exam time without administrative processes affecting their opportunity to attempt the paper.

Jaspal Rana, ace shooter and mentor to Olympic medallists, dies at 49

New Delhi: Former India shooter Jaspal Rana passed away Friday in Delhi — two weeks shy of his 50th birthday. A regular fixture on the country's sports pages in the 1990s due to his pioneering exploits at the ranges, Rana suffered a sudden cardiac complication while recovering from a major heart attack, according to doctors at Max Super Speciality Hospital, Saket, where he was admitted.

Rana was declared dead at 6.15am. On Thursday night, Rana reportedly spoke with his family until around 1am and had no complaints. Doctors said he had recovered significantly and was fit for discharge. However, when medical staff checked on him the next morning, he had no pulse or blood pressure.

"He unfortunately suffered a sudden cardiac rupture while asleep," Dr Balbir Singh, group chairman, cardiac sciences at Max, said.

Rana was admitted on June 1 with chest pain that had persisted for three days.

Fire at Kolkata govt bldg may have damaged EVMs

Dwaipayan Ghosh & Kaushik Pradhan | TNN

Kolkata: Several floors of the 10-storey New Administrative Building in Kolkata's Alipore were ravaged in a fire Wednesday, with a preliminary report submitted to Election Commission (EC) suggesting some EVMs could have been damaged in the blaze. The report prompted Bengal govt to form a four-member special investigation team (SIT) Friday.

An EC official said about 3,000 EVMs were kept in the strongroom on the 10th floor of the building. "In the preliminary report, the DM has stated some EVMs could have been damaged, but the extent of damage is yet to be determined," said the official.

The announcement about SIT investigation, led by an assistant commissioner of police (ACP), came after a forensic team collected crucial evidence, especially from the third and fourth floors, where the fire started, and the ninth and 10th floors, where another blaze reportedly broke out around an hour after the first blaze was brought under control.

An official said by the time the second fire broke out, electricity supply to the entire building was snapped.

IIT-M unveils new 3D atlas that could transform neurological care

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Chennai: Scientists at IIT, Madras, have built a 3D atlas of the human brainstem, charting more than 200 structures at the resolution of individual cells — a feat that experts say can transform how doctors diagnose and treat neurological diseases.

The brainstem, a stalk-like structure connecting the brain to the spinal cord, controls breathing, sleep, wakefulness and movement. Damage to it underlies some of the most severe neurological conditions. Doctors have long worked with maps too vague to show precisely which cells were affected. The new atlas, named ANCHOR, changes that, IIT-M announced Friday.

It works like a 'Google Maps' of the brainstem. A doctor can begin with an MRI scan, then zoom down through tissues, through fibre tracts that work like Internet cables carrying signals between brain regions, all the way to a single cell. To distinguish cell types, researchers applied eight chemical dyes, called immunostains, across several hundred tissue slices, lighting up specific proteins in each cell.

Wider footpaths, better drains. Magrath Rd unveils mod look

Sanjay.Murty

Bengaluru: Driving from Brigade Road towards Garuda Mall is set to become smoother as the redevelopment of Magrath Road in central Bengaluru nears completion. The 350-metre stretch between Brigade Road and Commissariat Road has been transformed into a redesigned urban street with wider accessible footpaths, aesthetic streetlights and upgraded drainage infrastructure.

The project was carried out under the supervision of Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) chairman and Shantinagar MLA NA Haris, who resides off Magrath Road. Haris, who inspected the roadwork Friday, told TOI he has been personally monitoring the project and providing inputs, including on the choice of materials, streetlight design and other features.

According to Bengaluru Central City Corporation executive engineer Atif Mohammed, one of the key interventions was raising the road level by more than a foot to address waterlogging. "The stretch was earlier very low-lying and prone to flooding during heavy rain. The road level has been increased and access to adjoining properties and intersecting roads improved," he explained.

The project, which cost around Rs 3 crore, took nearly a year to complete. The road carries a major underground KPTCL power line connected to Museum Road substation, adding to complexity of the work.

REDESIGNED STREET: The 350-metre stretch between Brigade Road and Commissariat Road was transformed over a year for a cost of ₹3 crore

Road named after military officer

Magrath Road was named after Colonel John Richard Magrath, an officer in Royal Military Artillery. Today, the road is home to Karnataka Police Officers' Mess, Garuda Mall, office spaces and a few residences. A major stretch of the road also runs alongside Bengaluru Football Stadium.

"The transformation is visible to anyone who visits the stretch. We paid attention to every detail, including the design of streetlights and pedestrian spaces. Once the issues at Brigade Road-end are resolved, Magrath Road will be ready for use

NA Haris | BDA CHAIRMAN & SHANTINAGAR MLA

Mod Foundation assisted in coordinating the project among multiple govt agencies and utility providers. Senior urban designer Amritha Ganapathy said the road has been built with durability and long-term maintenance in mind. "We have used stone matrix asphalt, which offers a longer service life than conventional surfacing. Additional underground stormwater drain pipes have been laid on both sides of the road, along with extra gratings to ensure quicker drainage during heavy rain," she said, adding: "We coordinated with every property along the stretch to ensure utility connections are in place and functioning before the chambers closed."

Residents hope the redevelopment will permanently address flooding issues on the stretch. Avinash R, who lives nearby, said waterlogging had long been a concern. "With this redevelopment and similar improvements on nearby roads, we expect the situation to improve significantly," he said.

BMRCL drops Veterinary College stn from Sarjapur–Hebbal line

Times News Network

Bengaluru: BMRCL has dropped the plan to construct Veterinary College Metro station, which was initially conceived as part of Sarjapur–Hebbal Metro corridor under Phase III-A. Officials said the decision was taken following suggestion of the ministry of housing and urban affairs (MoHUA), which reviewed the 37.8km project.

Sarjapur–Hebbal Metro line, pending approval from central govt for a long time, has undergone modifications. Earlier, BMRCL revised the design of underground stations to bring down expenses, and it has now decided to remove the proposed Veterinary College station from the project.

A senior MoHUA official said, "Officials observed that the distance between Veterinary College and Ganganagar stations was less than one kilometre and that ridership at the station could be low. Based on this assessment, a recommendation was made to drop the station."

Following the revisions, the project cost is expected to come down to Rs 25,999 crore. The original DPR estimated that the 37.8km corridor, comprising 14.28km of underground and 23.524km of elevated sections, would cost Rs 28,405 crore. Meanwhile, BMRCL has engaged IIT Roorkee to study the feasibility of providing for a double-decker flyover along the elevated sections of the corridor. "They are expected to submit their report shortly," an official said.

Good morning, Haralur residents!
Nightmare of travel on bad road ends

Permanent Fix After Drainage Work: Corpn

Hamsaveni.N
@timesofindia.com

Bengaluru: Friday morning was pleasantly different for thousands of commuters using Haralur Main Road. For the first time in months, they were able to navigate the stretch without having to dodge potholes, crawl through damaged sections or worry about loose gravel.

The transformation came after TOI highlighted the poor condition of the arterial road, linking Sarjapur Road and Hosur Road in the city's bustling tech corridor — frequent accidents, near-misses and traffic snarls faced by commuters.

Acting swiftly, GBA chief commissioner Maheshwar Rao and Bengaluru South City Corporation (BSCC) commissioner KN Ramesh ordered civic personnel to carry out asphalting works along the stretch between Birla Junction and Prestige Ferns Residency.

BSCC closed Haralur Road post 10pm Thursday to take up asphalting works and requested commuters to avoid the stretch for a few hours. By Friday morning, one round of asphalting was carried out. In fact, the breakneck speed at which the work was carried out has won appreciation from commuters as well as residents of apartments flanking Haralur Road, which connects Sarjapur Road with Hosur Road.

Locals said the difference was immediately visible, with traffic movement becoming smoother and commuting less stressful. Many welcomed the prompt response from civic authorities, saying temporary repairs made the road motorable after months of hardship.

The road was a source of concern due to persistent potholes, dug-up sections and drainage works, with commuters reporting frequent skidding incidents and accidents. The issue drew complaints from apartment residents, office-goers and others who use the corridor.

BSCC officials said drainage works will continue and two additional layers of asphalt will be laid later.

COMMUTERS WELCOME TEMPORARY RELIEF

"The recent road repairs in Haralur are a welcome step and the improvement is clearly noticeable. It is encouraging to see authorities acting on long-pending concerns raised by residents after the issues were highlighted in TOI. While problems such as drainage, waterlogging, waste management and encroached footpaths still need attention, this shows that resident feedback is being heard. We hope the locality sees comprehensive development

"The repairs have provided much-needed relief, and thanks to the TOI article, things moved quickly. The intervention was badly needed because this road is used by a large number of commuters, including those travelling from HSR Layout to Sarjapur Road who often avoid Outer Ring Road. It is a crucial corridor, and I hope the drain works are completed soon and we get a proper permanent road

Govt: Roll out free bus travel for boys with immediate effect

Times News Network

Bengaluru: The govt has directed four state-run road transport corporations to launch free bus travel facilities for male students with immediate effect.

As per guidelines issued by the transport department, the existing conditions applicable to concessional student bus passes will continue. This means male students will be allowed to travel only on designated routes between their residences and educational institutions.

A senior official of Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) said students will be able to apply for the free travel facility through Seva Sindhu portal and arrangements are being made for its implementation.

According to the guidelines, male students who have obtained student bus passes can continue using them and the amount paid by them will be refunded in 15 days.

The govt has also decided to extend free bus pass facility to students residing in border areas. "However, the benefit will be limited to a maximum distance of 60km. For instance, many students from Attibele study in Hosur and vice-versa. Similar situations exist in several border areas where students depend on bus services for their daily commute. This facility will benefit them," an official said.

The new free bus travel scheme is expected to benefit more than 10 lakh students across the state; transport corporations are likely to incur an annual expenditure of Rs 1,500 crore to Rs 1,700 crore.

For issuing bus passes for general category students, govt bore 50 per cent of the cost, while the remaining was shared equally by the respective corporation and student. The corporations have now requested govt to reimburse Rs 286 crore towards its share of the cost of issuing passes to general-category students, along with Rs 15 crore towards processing charges and accident insurance coverage required for providing the free travel facility.

Blast case suspect dies

A 60-year-old terror suspect lodged in Central Prison died of suspected cardiac arrest Friday. The deceased is Abdul Khader from Kerala, one of the accused in 2008 Bengaluru serial blast. "He was inside the barrack when the chest pain started. Immediately, he was being shifted to Jayadeva hospital, but he died on the way," prison officials said.

Influencer loses jewellery worth ₹5.6L in clinic

A 27-year-old social media influencer alleged that her jewellery worth over Rs 5.6 lakh went missing after she underwent a laser treatment at a posh dermatology clinic on Vittal Mallya Road. According to a complaint filed with Cubbon Park police on June 10, she had removed four diamond rings and two gold bangles and left them in a bag inside the therapy room before the procedure on May 7. She realised the ornaments were missing after leaving the clinic and immediately tried contacting staff, but it yielded no results.

Auto driver's physiotherapist daughter to get most gold medals

SruthySusan.Ullas

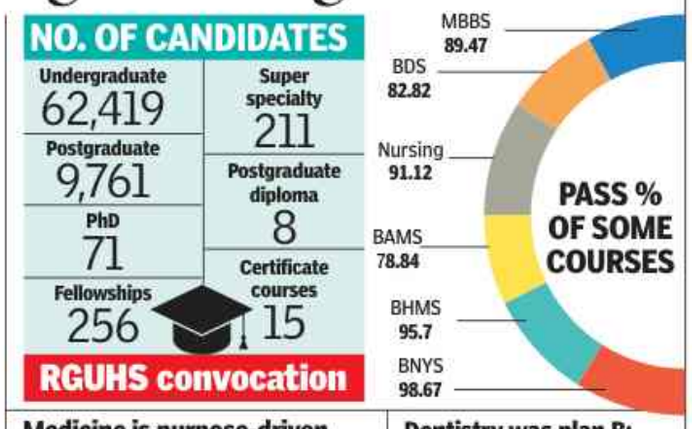
Spandhana I, a former bachelor of physiotherapy student from Padmashree Institute of Physiotherapy, remembers her class 12 days. It was Covid times. She wanted to do something in the medical field, but her parents were adamant that she should not. "They were scared to send me to the medical field. But I was persistent. I managed to get into a physiotherapy course along with a close friend," she said. Spandhana is currently pursuing her master's in physiotherapy and neuroscience in Ramaiah Medical College.

Spandhana will walk out as the winner of the highest number of gold medals at the 28th annual convocation of Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences. It will be held on June 16 at Dr Babu Rajendra Prasad International Conventional Centre, GKVK campus.

Originally from Nagarabhavi, her father Indresh M is an autorickshaw driver and mother Girija B runs a provisional store. Her elder sister is a software engineer. "The scope of physiotherapy has gone up; more people are aware of its advantages," she said.

Spandhana did not attend separate coaching for CET, but secured a rank in the 200s through lectures in RNS Vidyaniketan.



Medicine is purpose-driven career: MBBS graduate

The second in line is Dr Prajwal Kashyap, who completed his MBBS from Bengaluru Medical College and Research Institute. He will receive two gold medals and two cash prizes. "I feel medicine is a purpose-driven career. In spite of so many hardships like long working hours, at the end of the day when you make a difference in a person's life, you know it was worth it," he said. Prajwal is currently preparing for his NEET PG and hopes to get into general medicine.

Dentistry was plan B; now she's in love with it

Brinda MK, a dental student at SJM Dental College and Hospital, Chitradurga, recalled how BDS was plan B after MBBS, but she has fallen in love with the profession over the years. "The satisfaction that we get after treating a patient and relieving their pain is great," she said. She is awaiting counselling for MDS.

Record pass percentage

A total of 103 students shared 115 gold medals and of these, 82 are girls and 19 boys. The university has a record pass percentage of 89.22%, a jump from 87.49% in 2025 and 82.43% in 2024. Dr Bhagavan BC, vice-chancellor, attributed it to changes in examination, teaching and curriculum. "We have upgraded the curriculum in tune with current developments in the medical field and have implemented competency-based education (CBE)," he said.

RGUHS to honour college founder amid legal dispute

Times News Network

Bengaluru: Ironically, RGUHS will award honorary doctorate to AC Shanmugam, founder-chancellor of Rajarajeswari Medical College and Hospital, an institute with which the varsity is having a legal tussle.

In 2019, the Centre and UGC approved an application to change the college from under the ambit of RGUHS and transfer it to Dr MGR Educational and Research Institute, a deemed university in Chennai. RGUHS and the state govt opposed the move.

They argued it will result in a massive loss of medical seats for Karnataka students and that UGC bypassed mandatory procedures by not consulting the state. The case is yet to conclude.The college is currently a constituent college of Dr MGR Educational and Research Institute.

RGUHS said the name came from the governor's office and they cannot do anything about it. RGUHS VC Bhagavan BC said, "It was a decision taken by the committee constituted by governor. There are three members, of which former VC Sacchidanand was the university's nominee. We have no role in this beyond nominating a person to the panel." Sharan Prakash Patil, medical education minister, wasn't too happy about the choice. "This has come to my notice. We have gone to court against the college and they have got a stay. The legal fight is still on. But govt has no say in the selection process of honorary doctorates. All we can do is to initiate processes so that such things don't happen in future."

Rajarajeshwari medical college official said the college has no issues with RGUHS.

Apart from Shanmugam, the other awardees are Nailady Sridhar Shetty, former Dental Council of India president, and Harshangi Veerbhadrappa, paediatrician.

No fee hike for MBBS/BDS this year

Medical education minister Sharan Prakash Patil confirmed there will be no fee hike for medical and dental seats in the state this year.

"Students are already under stress and anxiety due to the ongoing NEET controversy. We do not want to burden them further. We categorically told private college associations that there can be no hike this year," he said at a press conference Friday.

The state has the largest number of medical seats: 13,945 undergraduate and 7,727 postgraduate. Another 550 MBBS seats are expected this year. TNN

3 cops suspended for probe botch-up into girl's death

Rajiv.Kalkod@timesofindia.com

Priyanka and Mohan GM

The autopsy report was re-read, the probe scope was widened, and the investigation gained pace only after intervention by Lokayukta IGP

Bengaluru: After the death of six-year-old P Vennela under mysterious circumstances on March 24, the police team investigating the case missed quite a few clear red flags and, worse, their probe hit the slow lane for several weeks. It's only after a fortuitous intervention by a Lokayukta IGP that the autopsy report was re-read, the probe scope was widened and the case gained pace.

Police Friday suspended three officials from Kadugodi police station who handled early investigations — inspector Rangaswamy (now posted as inspector, Electronics City traffic police station), sub-inspector Ningaraju and constable Halesh — on charges of apathy and negligence.

The action comes days after the arrest of the girl's mother P Priyanka, an advocate, and her live-in partner Mohan GM's confession that he fatally elbowed her in the stomach over spilled ice cream in their MUV.

Initially, her mother had told police Vennela died of suffocation as she had slept inside the parked vehicle with windows shut tight.

Bengaluru city police commissioner Seemanth Kumar Singh said investigation had lapses, caused by "wrong intentions". An officer of the rank of assistant commissioner of police from a different division will re-conduct the investigation, he said, adding the suspended officials will face department inquiry.

Deputy commissioner of police, Whitefield, Saidulu Adavat said police were awaiting toxicology and histopathology reports from Forensic Sciences Laboratory. "We had to believe the child's mother version as she was at the scene of the crime. Though the autopsy report suggested internal injuries on the stomach and asphyxiation as the cause of death, the mother claimed the child had fallen the previous day, resulting in internal injuries. Further, asphyxiation could have happened as the child was asleep inside the four-wheeler with windows rolled up. Despite all these, we subjected the two — particularly, Mohan — to deep interrogation. This made Mohan avail anticipatory bail," DCP Adavat said.

The FSL on May 27 confirmed the death was caused by internal injuries and asphyxiation. "Immediately, we contacted the child's father, B Praveen, asking him to register a murder case. We also approached the court to successfully get Mohan's anticipatory bail cancelled," he pointed out.

While police accelerated the pace and expanded the scope of investigations, Praveen shared the report of the autopsy, conducted at Vaidehi Hospital in Whitefield, with his sister Poornima Pandey, a child specialist in England. She, in turn, shared the document with her MBBS classmate, Dr Subramanyeswara Rao, now a senior IPS officer and posted as inspector-general of police, Lokayukta.

Dr Rao said told TOI there was enough material to register a murder case. "We examined the doctor who conducted the autopsy and the scene of crime officers along with the police officers. The outcome of the inquiry was communicated to Seemanth Kumar Singh," he said.

In a scathing criticism of police investigation, the IGP told TOI: "From day one, it was a case of murder. After the autopsy report came in, police could've registered a case of murder as the report indicated death was caused by asphyxia, obstruction to the airways and blunt injury to the abdomen. Instead, the suspects were allowed to roam free for nearly two months, going about further destroying any remaining evidence and secure anticipatory bail from the court."

Court bins claim on land granted to mutt

Times News Network

Bengaluru: In a relief for state govt and Siddaganga mutt of Tumakuru, Karnataka high court has set aside an order of a single bench on over 14 acres of land in Bengaluru North taluk.

A division bench, comprising Justices DK Singh and TM Nadaf, noted that the batch of petitioners who succeeded before the single bench had in fact engineered documents to show that land had been granted by the govt on Oct 11, 1982, thereby playing a fraud on the court.

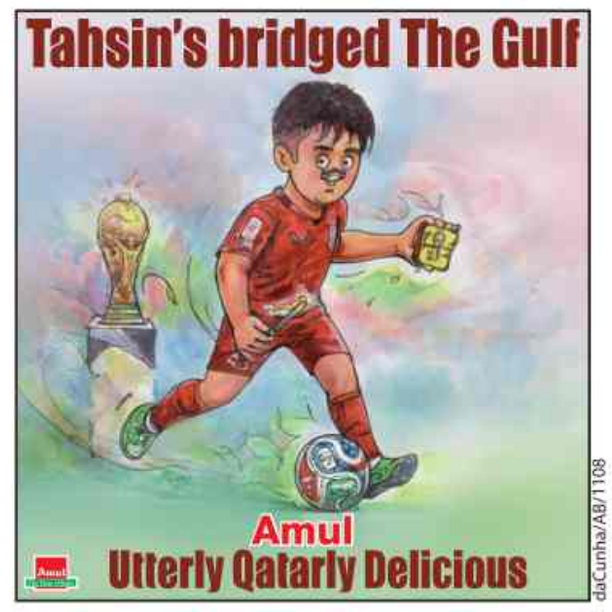
The mutt claimed that govt granted 14 acres 25 guntas at Kadaranahalli, Dasanapura hobli, in Aug 2010 for setting up a dasoha prasada centre and added that the grant certificate produced by the petitioners was fake.

On the other hand, petitioners Manjesh and others argued that in 1982, the land had been granted to them by the special deputy commissioner. They also argued that Karnataka Appellate Tribunal (KAT) could not have dismissed their claim.

The single bench not only set aside the order passed by KAT but also opined that the mutt had failed to show that the grant certificate produced by Manjesh was fake. The decision in 2018 forced the mutt and the govt to file separate writ appeals.

The HC division bench pointed out that even before KAT, the claim of the petitioners considered their request for 'saguvali chit' (grant certificate), and the report of the revenue authorities indicated that the subject land was vacant.

The bench pointed out that with the entry of one Manjesh, the created grant certificate came into existence and the same is fraudulent. "We would have considered the case of the petitioners by means of a direction to the respondent state to consider their applications filed in 1981, if the petitioners had maintained their stand as had been taken before the KAT and this court at the first instance. But the fact remains that the petitioners have started engineering the record, thereby created record, as if there was a grant order... This, for us, clearly indicates there are certain unseen hands working behind the scene," it observed.



HC: Delay in payout justifies 9% interest

Times News Network

Bengaluru: An interest rate of 9% is more appropriate in cases involving death and serious injury, especially where there is a long delay in the claimant's receiving the compensation, the high court ruled.

Justice Tara Vitasta Ganju, upholding the decision of the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Bengaluru, in a 10-year-old accident case, noted in her recent order that there cannot be any 'straitjacket formula' in determining the rate of interest and that the same must depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The guiding principle remains that the rate must neither be punitive nor non-existent but must strike a balance between fairness to the claimant and reasonableness to the insurer, the judge added.

In Nov 2016, one Ravanamma, on a bicycle, was hit by a speeding van when was crossing Outer Ring Road at Kasturinagar, east Bengaluru. An injured Ravanamma was taken to KR Pura Govt Hospital, wherein doctors declared her 'brought dead'.

Her husband and two children moved the tribunal seeking compensation, claiming that the deceased was working as a mason and supporting the family with monthly earnings of Rs 9,000.

In Feb 2018, the tribunal awarded Rs 16.5 lakh compensation along with 9% interest. United India Insurance Company, insurer of the van, challenged the same. It argued that the interest rate was high and it should be reduced to 8%. The insurer claimed that there was no delay from its side.

Justice Ganju noted that interest is the compensation for the money being held back from the family of a deceased or the injured person. The courts have, from time to time, held that the interest is awarded not because of any contractual obligation but because of the delay in claimants receiving compensation.

"The rate of interest must be just, fair and reasonable, having regard to the prevailing economic conditions and bank rates. In the present case, the accident occurred in 2016 and the award was passed in 2018. The tribunal deemed it appropriate to award interest at the rate of 9% per annum. The award of interest is not punitive and is fair considering the prevailing economic conditions and bank rates. In addition, it is now 10 years since the date of the accident," the judge observed while directing the insurer to pay an additional Rs 1.9 lakh compensation along with 9% interest.

With book club, innovators reshape lives of hearing-impaired

Anush.S@timesofindia.com

Book-reading sessions for the hearing-impaired are conducted thrice a month in Bengaluru

Bengaluru: Blowing winds of change, city-based innovators are making lives easier for persons with disabilities (PwDs). At the imaginATe Bootcamp organised by not-for-profit Assistech Foundation at IIIT-Bangalore Friday, around 10 innovators, who are also PwDs, came together to be mentored by corporate experts on business development, inclusive design thinking and fundraising. Here are two such innovators and their ideas at work:

Inculcating reading habits

Parmeet Singh, 22, while joining Kristu Jayanti University for his graduation, noticed his peers had all read multiple books, both fiction and non-fictions, while his reading was limited.

Born in Delhi, he had lost his hearing ability similar to his father and mother and adopted sign language as his primary medium of communication.

Speaking to TOI through an interpreter, Parmeet said a transition to college from his school for the hearing impaired was difficult due to lack of reading. "We didn't have any such college which teaches psychology. I always wanted to learn and support psychology for deaf people. When we study in a special school, most of it is a repetitive mugging-up system and the concepts are not explained properly. In college it is more like a self learning system," he pointed out.

In order to cultivate the reading habit, he formed a book club named Deaf Bookwave, uniting the hearing-impaired population in the city to come together. "When I initially started it, there was only one session per month or even one for two months. Now I am getting connected to many deaf people; they are supporting me. We have around 25 people participating every time. That's all I wanted when I started," Parmeet said.

After the success of his book club, Parmeet expanded his network from Bengaluru to eight other places including Goa, Mumbai and Thiruvananthapuram. Parmeet has completed his final year of degree in psychology and aims to bring a change in his community. He has carried out over 30 sessions with 800 people participating in it.

AI-POWERED APP TO MAKE SURROUNDINGS SAFER VIA SOUNDS

Another innovator, supported by the initiative, was V Balaji, who has developed Echo-Sign, an AI-powered solution that helps people with hearing impairments interpret environmental sounds. Balaji works as an assistant professor at RV University.

Diagnosed with locomotor disability, Balaji decided to assist the hearing impaired who constitute a significant number of people with disabilities in the city.

He co-developed Echo-Sign, a dynamic gesture recognition mobile application exclusively for persons with hearing impairments. The software presents an AI-driven solution that enables seamless gesture-based communication, making digital interactions more accessible for individuals with hearing impairments.

He had received support from the organiser of imaginATe, who had mentored him to scale up the application. It has also received support from Indian Institute of Science (IISc). With the app, the sounds around the user will be identified by AI which can alert the person in cases of emergencies. "The community has very little awareness about the environment. Imagine an emergency situation when I'm working and the siren is blowing, nobody cares in those situations. People want to save themselves," elaborated Partheek Madhav, founder of Assistech.

GREENER LIVING STARTS AT HOME

Water security, green cover, and energy efficiency are reshaping Bengaluru's housing market as sustainability becomes a necessity

Ranita.Ray

In Bengaluru's real estate market, environmentally conscious housing is gradually becoming a measure of long-term liveability. Housing conversations in the city now sound very different. Water tankers, drying borewells, and stressed lakes have become part of the city's reality. Neighbourhoods that once sat on the outskirts are now densely populated, placing additional pressure on already stretched resources. Against this backdrop, buyers are paying closer attention to how well a home is equipped to handle the challenges of the years ahead. Questions that previously revolved around clubhouse amenities and premium fittings now extend to rainwater harvesting, sewage treatment plants, water recycling capacity, and energy consumption.

According to Pavan Kumar, founder and CEO, White Lotus Group, an environmentally friendly home is no longer about a few visible green features for a buyer in Bengaluru. "It is about whether the home has been planned with responsibility towards the city's most fragile resources - water, land, air, and the quality of everyday life."

Echoing similar thoughts, Vishal Vincent Tony, managing director of Aratt Developers, says that for homebuyers in Bengaluru, sustainability has become a necessity. "It is no longer a luxury. Features such as rainwater harvesting systems, solar-powered common areas, wastewater recycling, low-VOC paints, energy-efficient lighting, and smart waste management should now be part of every buyer's checklist."

WATER FIRST

"Water is the first non-negotiable feature," says Kumar. "Rainwater harvesting, groundwater recharge, wastewater treatment, efficient plumbing, and native landscaping need to be built into the project from the start. Bengaluru- can no longer treat water as an unlimited utility."

Residential projects designed with efficient sewage treatment plants are viewed as more stable. Such units use treated water for landscaping, toilets, and common utilities. Even smaller interventions, such as low-flow taps, dual-flush systems, and sensor-based fixtures, are gaining importance, especially when they are fitted in large housing communities.

GREEN COVER

Beyond water management, attention is also shifting towards how projects interact with the land itself. Projects with sufficient green cover not just at the walkways and play area, but spread out evenly, are sought after. "Homes designed with green landscapes, better daylight access, and reduced heat absorption can significantly improve quality of life while lowering long-term utility costs," opines Tony.

The second most important feature on the green home checklist is respect for land, opines Kumar. "Greenery should not always be designed after construction; wherever possible, it must be retained, protected, and planned around. Mature trees, natural contours, existing water pathways, soil character, and native ecology should guide the master plan, not be treated as obstacles. A truly responsible home begins by listening to the land," he says.

In newer projects, developers and architects are gradually moving away from ornamental, water-intensive landscaping towards native, biodiversity-friendly planting. Instead of expensive fancy variants, local species require less maintenance, adapt better to Bengaluru's rainfall patterns, and support urban biodiversity more effectively. Architects prefer the latter options.

SUSTAINABLE ENERGY

Rising electricity consumption and periodic tariff revisions have been a constant concern in the city. It has created interest towards solar integration across Bengaluru's housing market. While rooftop solar remains more common in villas and plotted developments, apartment communities are increasingly adopting solar power for lighting, water heating, lifts, and common areas.

"Buyers are asking more pointed questions around actual efficiency, energy offsets, and maintenance savings rather than simply checking whether solar infrastructure exists," shares Mohan Duggal, a banking professional. He further mentions how residential projects which let the homeowners install solar panels are in demand.

Apart from solar-powered energy, smart energy systems are also becoming common. Automated lighting controls, occupancy sensors, and energy-monitoring tools are finding a place in residential projects.

Predicting what to expect, Tony shares, "The future of sustainable housing will become even more technology-driven. We can expect AI-enabled energy monitoring systems, smart air purification, climate-responsive architecture, EV charging ecosystems, and homes integrated with renewable energy storage solutions to become increasingly common."

Siddaramaiah denies favouritism charge over ₹72-crore OBC grants

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Bengaluru: Former chief minister Siddaramaiah has rejected accusations of discrimination and bias over his govt's preliminary approval of Rs 71.8 crore to 155 organisations of various backward communities to construct community halls and student hostels.

A row erupted over the order which was issued on June 3, the day Siddaramaiah stepped down as CM and DK Shivakumar assumed office.

After copies of the order circulated on social media, critics alleged favouritism, claiming that organisations of the Kuruba community, to which Siddaramaiah belongs, received over Rs 41 crore of the total allocation. Allegations also surfaced that a trust named after Siddaramaiah's late son, Rakesh Siddaramaiah, in Gadag was sanctioned Rs 50 lakh.

Siddaramaiah clarified that the department's order is only a preliminary sanction, not a direct release of funds. He explained that the Kuruba community received a larger share simply because a higher number of organisations from the community submitted applications.

He highlighted that preliminary approvals were also granted to numerous other communities, including Madivala, Lingayat, Vokkaliga, Besta, Balija, Golla, Jetti, Kumbara, Arasu, Helava, Savita Samaja, Uppara, Ganiga, Kuruhina Shetty, Halakki, and Reddy.

Pointing out that the list is not final, Siddaramaiah said applications from other OBC organisations are being examined, and funds will be released to them as well. He said the govt strictly follows a continuous reservation formula: 70% of funds are earmarked for Categories I and II-A, while 30% is reserved for Categories III-A and III-B. The higher allocation to certain groups reflects the larger number of castes and organisations covered under Categories I and II-A.

To secure final funding under govt guidelines, organisations must submit proof of land ownership, local body building licences, and three years of audited financial statements through their district commissioners. Funds will be released in three phases based on annual reviews of construction progress.

CENTRE'S SUPPORT SOUGHT TO MODERNISE POLICE FORCE

Chief minister DK Shivakumar met Union home minister Amit Shah Friday and sought the Centre's support for a series of proposals aimed at strengthening Karnataka's security infrastructure, police capabilities and cybercrime prevention systems. Shivakumar submitted a memorandum seeking approval and financial assistance for several pending projects, including the creation of two additional India Reserve Battalions (IRBs), modernisation of prisons, upgrading police training institutions and installation of advanced surveillance systems.

He urged Shah to facilitate early approvals and release of funds for the projects, stating that they were critical to improving law enforcement, public safety, and internal security in Karnataka. TNN

Actor Prakash Raj's name surfaces in writ petition

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Bengaluru: Actor Prakash Raj found himself at the centre of a heated political and legal controversy after his name appeared in a writ petition filed by CN Chinnaiah, the main accused in the sensational Dharmasthala case.

Chinnaiah, who is currently being investigated for his explosive — and disputed — claims of multiple murders and burials in the temple town, alleged in his court filing that he was a pawn in a larger conspiracy to defame the sacred site.

DHARMASTHALA 'MASS BURIALS'

Responding to the swirling allegations on X, Prakash Raj urged the public to disregard "exaggerated and fabricated stories" being circulated by what he called "malicious individuals".

The multi-lingual actor, who is currently out of the state, promised to return and hold a press conference soon to clarify his position.

WASTED EFFORTS: File picture of SIT sleuths searching for human remains at a site in Dharmasthala

Home minister Priyank Kharge also cautioned against jumping to conclusions. "Just because a name is mentioned, one cannot be considered a criminal," Priyank said, adding that the special investigation team (SIT) was directed by the high court to submit a status report on the probe by June 29. "It is a court-monitored investigation. The court asked the SIT certain questions, and the chief will reply to them. The case cannot be discussed publicly," he said.

Controversy erupted last year when Chinnaiah claimed he buried numerous victims of sexual assault in Dharmasthala over two decades. A SIT was formed, and several sites were dug up, but sleuths found partial skeletal remains at only two sites, casting doubts on the veracity of Chinnaiah's claims.

In his recent petition, Chinnaiah alleged that a Rs 200 crore conspiracy funded the campaign against the temple, naming various activists, besides Raj.

Opposition BJP has seized on the development, with MLA Sunil Kumar demanding that the govt immediately make the SIT report public. "The public deserves to know the motive behind this revelation," Kumar said, accusing the govt of allowing the defamation of a prominent Hindu religious centre.

Union min to open new TB dam gates

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Bengaluru/New Delhi: Jal shakti minister CR Patil will inaugurate the newly installed crest gates at Tungabhadra reservoir soon. The announcement followed a high-level meeting in Delhi Friday, where chief minister DK Shivakumar, cabinet colleague Ramalinga Reddy and Congress functionary TB Jayachandra pressed the Centre for swift clearances on crucial water projects.

"There is a possibility that chief ministers of neighbouring states will also participate in the event. We are confident that those entrusted with delivering justice will not do any injustice," Shivakumar said.

The Shivakumar-led delegation also pushed for central backing on major water lifelines, including the Mekedatu balancing reservoir, the Krishna tribunal award notification, the Mahadayi issue, and the release of Rs 5,300 crore for the Upper Bhadra project.

On the development blueprint submitted to PM Modi seeking the Centre's support, the CM said: "The memorandum covers Karnataka's overall development and includes proposals relating to agriculture, irrigation, urban development and transport. The PM will examine them and take an appropriate decision."

Asked about an impending cabinet expansion, Shivakumar simply said, "We will see in the days to come."

SHORT TAKES

Approval for 50 AI labs in govt-run colleges

To expand access to emerging technologies and enhance employability of youth in Tier-2 and Tier-3 cities, the govt has approved the establishment of 50 artificial intelligence (AI) laboratories in govt colleges in the state. IT-BT minister Priyank Kharge said the initiative will be implemented in partnership with the Centre's AI Mission and aims to equip students with industry-relevant skills in artificial intelligence, machine learning, data science and other advanced technologies. "The laboratories will enable students from smaller cities and towns to gain practical exposure to emerging technologies and build industry-ready skills," Priyank said. Under the Centre's AI Mission, each laboratory will receive financial assistance of Rs 68.9 lakh over three years. The state govt has also approved Rs 10 crore for the initiative, including Rs 6.3 crore to be released in the first year.

Personal secretaries appointed to ministers

In separate notifications, Mahesh Karjagi, a KAS officer awaiting posting, has been appointed personal secretary to the health and family welfare minister. The appointment takes immediate effect and remains in force until the completion of the minister's tenure or until further orders. Devaraj B, also a KAS officer awaiting posting, was appointed personal secretary to the transport minister. His appointment will also take immediate effect and continue until further orders.

HDK slams govt over Bidadi project

Union minister HD Kumaraswamy criticised the govt for issuing the final notification for the proposed Bidadi Township and alleged farmers opposing the project were being targeted with police action. He said that when he proposed five townships in 2006, he shelved the plan after farmers objected, respecting their sentiments. He said farmers have been protesting the project for 470 days and alleged FIRs were being filed against peaceful protesters.

Ashoka hits back at CM over waste tender

Opposition leader R Ashoka escalated the war of words with CM DK Shivakumar, calling him "a commission agent for powerful lobbies, contractors and the garbage mafia". He was responding to Shivakumar's allegation that he was acting as "an agent of the garbage mafia" by raising claims of a Rs 39,000-crore garbage processing scam in Bengaluru and alleging a Rs 10,000-crore kickback. In a post on X, Ashoka said he was an "agent of the people" and claimed to represent the interests of Karnataka's citizens "against misgovernance and corruption by the Congress govt".

Video clip exposes rift between Siddaramaiah and Zameer

A video widely shared on social media showing former CM Siddaramaiah snapping at a Congress worker, has laid bare the strain on his once-unshakeable political relationship with former minister BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan. The clip, purportedly filmed after DK Shivakumar took over as CM, captures a loyalist pitching for a cabinet berth for Zameer. The worker purportedly tells Siddaramaiah: "He was your loyalist and very close to you... ensure a deputy CM post for him." However, Siddaramaiah cuts him off, saying: "Just because he is close to me, is it right to work against me?" With Siddaramaiah openly questioning his loyalty, Zameer's prospects for a cabinet berth look increasingly bleak.

Kharge: Rejecting nomination is part of plan to finish Cong

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Bengaluru: A day after he was re-elected to the Rajya Sabha unopposed, Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge accused the BJP-led govt at the Centre of using administrative machinery to systematically weaken opposition parties and undermine democratic norms.

The remarks followed the Supreme Court's refusal to directly intervene after election officials rejected the nomination papers of Congress' Rajya Sabha candidate Meenakshi Natarajan in Madhya Pradesh.

RS CONTROVERSY

Kharge called the rejection "illegal, immoral and anti-democratic and biased" pointing out that a BJP-backed independent candidate in Jharkhand was reportedly allowed time to rectify affidavit errors, while the Congress candidate was immediately disqualified.

"This wouldn't have happened without the knowledge of PM Modi. It is such a big thing," Kharge alleged. "Modi is purposely doing this as part of a conspiracy to finish Congress party. I'm not saying the PM himself is doing it, but they have ensured their people are in positions at all places. RSS agents are everywhere, especially where the BJP is at the helm. They disregard laws, rules, and regulations and act according to their own will."

CONFIRMED WINNER: Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge collects his election certificate from MK Vishalakshi, assembly secretary, at Vidhana Soudha on Friday

Despite the setback, Kharge said that the party would adhere to established judicial protocols and challenge the election official's rejection before the high court.

Grateful to Sonia

Kharge also credited party chairperson Sonia Gandhi for his extended political innings. "This is my 13th election... I am grateful to Sonia Gandhi. She has given me the opportunities to serve the people," Kharge said.

Vijay offers 1.6kg silver sword to Kollur temple

Vinobha KT | TNN

Udupi: Tamil Nadu chief minister C Joseph Vijay Friday added another chapter to his state's long association with Sri Mookambika temple in Kollur with his visit to the place of worship.

During his 25-minute stay, Vijay offered a silver sword weighing 1.6kg, along with a silk saree and flowers to the temple diety.

Babu Shetty, Kollur temple committee president, said Vijay is the third CM of Tamil Nadu to visit the place of worship.

"He has not made any special vow but offered prayers with a 'mangalarati'. The silver sword that he offered will be preserved in our temple's valuable collection of offerings. We presented him a portrait of the goddess embossed on a silver plate," Shetty said.

The temple shares a decades-long bond with Tamil Nadu's political functionaries, dating back to former CM MG Ramachandran, who donated a golden sword in 1977. The offering remains one of the temple's prized possessions.

Over the years, several prominent personalities from Tamil Nadu, including former CM J Jayalalithaa and the wife of another former CM MK Stalin, have visited the shrine.

Temple priest Ramachandra Adiga said the number of devotees from the neighbouring state increased considerably after MGR donated the sword. He added that Jayalalithaa had seen the sword during her visit. He also recalled the diamond ornaments and diamond-studded crown donated by music composer Ilaiyaraaja.

Vijay also viewed the golden sword during his visit. After the darshan, he drove himself back to Mangaluru airport.

HC: RTI can't be used for obtaining personal info

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Bengaluru: The Right to Information (RTI) Act cannot be employed as a mechanism for obtaining personal information merely for advancing a private claim, the high court has ruled.

Justice Suraj Govindaraj made the observation in a recent judgment while dismissing a petition filed by Bengaluru resident S Savithramma.

She moved Karnataka Information Commission (KIC) for details of the assets and liabilities of SP Jayapal, who worked as deputy controller at the central KSRTC office during 1990-2002, saying he fraudulently obtained a sale deed from her, and she required the documents for pending civil suits.

On May 6, 2025, KIC rejected her application, citing the information sought by her fell under personal category and could not be disclosed as it was exempted under RTI Act.

Challenging the order, Savithramma approached high court, arguing that Jayapal is a public servant and, therefore, any immovable property acquired by him, together with the corresponding disclosure of assets and liabilities, should be revealed.

Justice Govindaraj, however, rejected the argument.

"The right to privacy is now recognised as a constitutionally protected right. Section 8(1)(j) of RTI Act represents a statutory manifestation of that protection in the context of access to information. Therefore, before directing disclosure of personal information, the authority must be satisfied that public interest sought to be served is of such magnitude as to outweigh privacy interests of the individual. No such circumstances have been shown in the case," he noted.

Int'l travel: Indian carriers close the gap with foreign airlines

Indian airlines' share of international operations rose to 46% in FY25, up nearly 8 percentage points over a decade. Foreign carriers still lead, carrying 54% of international passengers

One year on, kin of deceased AI 171 crew still in disbelief

Srimoyee Palit | TNN

Mumbai: "When I got to know that the aircraft was flying to Gatwick (airport in London), I was sure that it was the aircraft which had Aparna on board. But I was still hopeful. The same night I landed in Mumbai and came to know that none of the crew had survived. I can't believe it has been one year since then." As Air India employees, former colleagues, friends and family members gathered in Mumbai on Friday to mark the first anniversary of the AI171 crash in Ahmedabad, Amol Mahadik's recollection of the day he lost his wife captured the grief that continues to linger within the airline community.

The London-bound Boeing 787-8 crashed shortly after take-off from Ahmedabad on June 12 last year, killing 260 people. One passenger survived. All 12 crew members died in the accident, 11 of whom were based in Mumbai. Mahadik, an Air India employee whose wife Aparna was among the cabin crew members on board, recalled being at a training academy when he first learnt that an aircraft had gone down in Ahmedabad. "By the time I got to the classroom, the news had broken out and I got to know that a plane had gone down in Ahmedabad. I still didn't think it would be Aparna's plane, because obviously you don't think of such things, right?" he said.

The memorial service on Friday, attended by serving and retired Air India employees and families of the victims, included multi-faith prayers, hymns, readings and a minute's silence. The names of the deceased crew members were read out as colleagues remembered them as friends, mentors and dedicated aviation professionals. A close friend of Shraddha Dhawan, one of the deceased crew members, said the loss is incomparable. "It was particularly heartbreaking when Shraddha's young daughter, Adya, asked about her mother," she said, adding that Shraddha had often spoken about working abroad.

UK mom pays tribute amid repatriation confusion

Ahmedabad: Amanda Donaghey, who travelled from the UK to Ahmedabad to pay tribute to her son Fiognal Greenlaw Meek and his partner Jamie, both among 241 passengers killed in the AI171 crash, said "British authorities have been able to identify" remains allegedly sent mistakenly to her as her son's and that officials are now "awaiting information from Indian govt to repatriate him" to the family to which the match belongs.

Donaghey visited the crash site at the Atulyam block of the BJ Medical College hostel on Friday along with other grieving relatives. Accompanied by a family member, she walked up to the charred building and broke down. She carried a book she had compiled about her son and showed it to others present.

A year on, mystery over 'unidentified male' persists

Prashant.Rupera
@timesofindia.com

Vadodara: Exactly one year after the AI 171 crash, a UK coroner may soon have to decide whether unidentified human remains linked to the disaster should be buried or cremated, as the identity of an "unidentified male" victim remains unresolved.

The issue has come to light through UK-based Miten Patel, whose parents, Ashok Patel (74) and Shobhana Patel (71), were among those killed in the AI171 crash in Ahmedabad

The mystery emerged after Shobhana's remains were repatriated to the UK. A post-repatriation CT scan found additional skeletal remains in her casket. Forensic tests confirmed they belonged to an unidentified male crash victim. An inquest has now been opened into the man's death, Miten said.

IMD monsoon forecast triggers drought fears

Contingency measures in such a situation largely include promotion of drought-tolerant crop varieties, less water-consuming crops such as millets and pulses, weather-based agro-advisory services, efficient water management and location-specific adaptation strategies to minimise agricultural losses, the IMD said.

IMD's forecast comes from its Monsoon Mission Coupled Forecast System which is a state-of-the art dynamical prediction model adopted by the met department for long-range forecasting of the Indian monsoon. The monsoon Friday advanced into some more parts of West Bengal and Bihar; and some parts of Odisha and Jharkhand.

"The latest MMCFS plume and probability forecasts suggest moderate to strong El Niño conditions during the southwest monsoon season," said the India Meteorological Department, noting that it will continue to closely monitor the evolving ENSO (El Niño Southern Oscillation) conditions and provide monthly updates based on the latest observations and changes in the Pacific Ocean.

"Conditions are favourable for further advance of southwest monsoon into some more parts of central Arabian Sea, Maharashtra, remaining parts of Karnataka, Telangana, Andhra Pradesh and West Bengal, some more parts of Odisha, Jharkhand and Bihar, and some parts of Chhattisgarh during the next 2-3 days," IMD said.

Amid the risk of "moderate to strong" El Niño, the met department has already predicted 'below normal' monsoon rainfall this year with 60% probability of its being 'deficient', triggering a fear of drought.

3 Assam boys morph pix of 64 female teachers & classmates

Tathagata Bhattacharjee | TNN

Guwahati: Cybercrime police in Assam Friday initiated a probe after three boys from two prominent private schools in Guwahati were found involved in creating explicit deepfake images and videos of at least 64 female schoolmates and teachers. They had allegedly lifted photos from the individual and school Instagram accounts and sold them online.

The schools have suspended the students and referred the case to child abuse monitoring committees.

A senior police officer told TOI, "We received the complaint and investigators are now trying to identify the exact source of the images and the online platforms where the contents were uploaded and circulated."

While schools maintain zero-tolerance policy towards cyber misconduct and misuse of digital platforms, Guwahati has witnessed the disturbing pattern targeting female students in the past as well. Two years ago, three Class XI students were arrested for sharing morphed nude images of a minor female peer.

India summons US envoy for 2nd time hours before Trump denial

Slams US Hits, 'Avoidable Loss Of 3 Indian Lives'

Sachin.Parashar

New Delhi: India summoned US charge d'affaires Jason Meeks for the second time in three days to lodge a strong protest against attacks on commercial vessels in Gulf of Oman that have resulted in the "tragic and avoidable loss of three Indian lives".

The move came hours before US President Donald Trump accused Iran of carrying out drone strikes on Indian ships in Strait of Hormuz.

Unlike the last time the charge d'affaires was summoned, the ministry on this occasion issued a statement to say that targeting civilian shipping with lethal force was unacceptable. The summons, again as opposed to the last time, took place in full public glare with the media allowed to film his arrival at the ministry of external affairs.

ANI screen grab

Unlike last time, the media was allowed to film US charge d'affaires Jason Meeks (left) arriving at the ministry of external affairs Friday

Deputy chief of mission Meeks is officiating as charge d'affaires in the absence of ambassador Sergio Gor, who is on a visit to central Asia.

According to MEA, Meeks was also requested to convey India's strong concerns to his authorities and to ensure that US forces operating in the region take all necessary measures to prevent the loss of civilian life.

"The ministry once again conveyed its deep concern over the use of lethal and deadly force against civilian shipping. Such actions are unacceptable and undermine the safety, security and stability of international maritime commerce in a sensitive region at a difficult time," the ministry said.

Asked for a reaction to the development, a US embassy spokesperson said that American authorities were in direct contact with Indian govt on these issues. "We don't have anything further to share on our private diplomatic conversations," said the official.

India's statement underscoring the risk to commercial shipping from US strikes is significant as govt sources had, for the past couple of days, highlighted the American position that the ships were trying to evade the US blockade of Iranian ports when they were hit by precision munitions. An official said even if the vessels failed to comply with instructions from US forces, actions that could imperil the lives of crew members must be avoided.

Two Palau-flagged vessels and another Guinea-Bissau-flagged ship have been "disabled" since June 8 by US forces working to impose the blockade on Iranian ports that the Trump administration announced in April. Two of these ships are sanctioned by the US Office of Foreign Assets Control, according to American authorities.

The attack on M/T Settebello on Wednesday had resulted in deaths of three Indian sailors, after which MEA additional secretary (Americas) Nagaraj Naidu had summoned Meeks the same evening to issue a demarche to him. However, the very next day, US forces fired missiles at M/T Jalveer, which had 20 Indians on board, accusing it of attempting to transport oil from Iran. According to the central command, the blockade is being enforced impartially against vessels of all nations entering or departing Iranian ports and coastal areas.

Class X boy stabs classmate to death in UP school

Pathikrit Chakraborty | TNN

Lucknow: A 17-year-old Class X student was stabbed to death by his classmate during a coaching session inside a school in UP's Chandauli district on Friday. The accused allegedly told police he had bought a knife online for Rs 300 to "teach him a lesson" after repeated bullying.

The teen was killed at an intermediate college in Pratappur village under Sadar Kotwali limits, around 10 km from the district headquarters. Around 10 students were attending a summer vacation class. The victim was seated in the front row, while the accused, also 17, was sitting behind him. Around 15 minutes into the session, the accused allegedly got up, took out the knife concealed in his waistband and stabbed the victim multiple times in the chest. The sudden assault triggered panic, with students and staff rushing out of the classroom. The injured boy collapsed on the spot. He was taken to the district hospital where doctors declared him dead.

Mystery theft of mobile tower stuns Bihar town

K Kamlesh | TNN

Buxar: An entire mobile tower has "hung up" on Dumraon town in Bihar's Buxar, disappearing from the plot where it once stood and proudly pierced the sky with authorities suspecting a theft of stratospheric dimensions.

As a probe rolled, officials and locals scratched their heads about how the 40-metre-tall tower vanished into thin air along with a 15 KVA diesel generator and other telecom equipment. The unusual case came to light when a team from GTL Infrastructure Limited, the tower firm, visited the site on June 2 to inspect and reactivate the tower lying inoperational for several years due to technical reasons. A formal police complaint was filed on Thursday, leading to a case.

Baijnath Ojha, GTL's land and operations officer who lodged the complaint, said the tower had been installed on the plot owned by a local, Harinath Yadav. Yadav said his agreement with GTL expired in 2022 and alleged that no payments had been made to him since 2017. He claimed to have sent several legal notices to the company after the agreement ended but received no response. Yadav, however, maintained that he had no role in the case and was unaware of how the tower disappeared without a trace.

Dumraon SDPO Polast Kumar confirmed the case and said the police were conducting a thorough investigation to identify those responsible.

Locals expressed astonishment. The disappearance of an entire mobile tower suggested the involvement of a highly organised gang.

Blind child-rape survivor identifies suspects by voice

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Chandigarh: Punjab and Haryana HC has relied on a blind rape survivor's identification of three juvenile accused by their voices and rejected their bail pleas. It observed that although the survivor was unable to name all the bail petitioners, she had identified them by voice, a circumstance that weighed against their release.

In her detailed order, Justice Shalini Singh Nagpal held that, given the nature of allegations and the surrounding circumstances, releasing the accused would "defeat the ends of justice".

The case began when the chairman of Child Welfare Committee, Karnal (Haryana), found the minor girl pregnant, eating soil, and in desperate need of care and protection. An FIR was registered and, after initial investigation, police rounded up three juveniles for sexually abusing the girl. The identity of sone of the accused was disclosed in the FIR and names of two others surfaced after questioning. All three then sought bail under Juvenile Justice Act.

Housewife's contribution invaluable, says high court, hikes accident payout

Srishti.Lakhotia
@timesofindia.com

Kolkata: Observing that a housewife's contribution to her family is invaluable, Calcutta High Court (HC) on June 9 increased compensation for the minor daughter of a woman killed in a road accident from Rs 9,17,000 to Rs 11 lakh, along with 6% annual interest.

Justice Biswaroop Chowdhury observed that although there is no fixed formula for assessing a housewife's notional income, the loss suffered by a family after her death cannot be measured in monetary terms. Courts must, therefore, award fair and reasonable compensation.

Referring to a 2010 Supreme Court judgment, the high court noted that a housewife's "services" extend beyond household work.

They include the care, guidance, and attention she provides as a mother and wife. Justice Biswaroop Chowdhury's judgment added that compensation should not be reduced simply because another family member, such as a grandmother, may step in to help after her death.

'No writs after polls begin': SC rejects Natarajan plea

Remedy Is Filing Of An Election Petition, Suggests Apex Court

Dhananjay.Mahapatra

New Delhi: Supreme Court Friday dismissed Congress candidate Meenakshi Natarajan's petition challenging rejection of her nomination for Rajya Sabha elections from Madhya Pradesh, refusing to carve out an exception from the judicially well-settled principle that bars courts from entertaining election disputes after commencement of the poll process.

"The remedy is filing of an election petition" to challenge the election of the returned candidate, said a partial working day bench of Justices Prashant Kumar Mishra and AS Chandurkar, which delivered the verdict after senior advocate AM Singhvi, urged the court to test the validity of the returning officer's decision.

After an hour-long proceeding, during which senior advocate Mukul Rohatgi for the BJP candidate whose election was facilitated by Natarajan's disqualification and solicitor general Tushar Mehta for MP govt cited a judgment where SC had refused to entertain a similar plea against rejection of nomination papers, the bench said the SC or HC cannot entertain writ petitions in exercise of their jurisdictions under

Congress' Meenakshi Natarajan with Jitu Patwari during a briefing at AICC office in New Delhi, Friday

Articles 32 or 226 of the Constitution. Once the election process commences with the notification of polls.

Natarajan's nomination papers were rejected as she failed to disclose a pending criminal case based on a private complaint in her election affidavit. Singhvi said on the private complaint, the trial court has only issued summonses to her and that no cognisance has been taken. The complaint was originally not against Natarajan and claimed her name was added three years later after she was made AICC incharge for Telangana.

Singhvi said the RP Act requires a candidate to disclose in his poll affidavit only such cases where a chargesheet has been filed and charges have been framed. This was contested in unison by Rohatgi, Mehta and advocate Kanu Agrawal, who said since 2018, it has been mandatory to disclose all pending criminal cases, including those where chargesheets have not been filed or charges have not been framed. The bench refused to enter the political thicket and brushed aside Singhvi's charge of grave mala fide against the Election Commission.

A royal family member opens fire at Nagod state 'bahu', held

Bhopal: A simmering feud in Satna's Nagod erstwhile royal family turned violent on Thursday when a woman allegedly opened fire with a licensed rifle during a heated confrontation at the historic Parsmania Garhi, critically injuring Yogita Singh, wife of Rupendra Singh, alias Baba Raja, police said.

Police arrested the accused woman, identified as Sunita Parihar, and recovered the licensed rifle allegedly used in the shooting.

According to the FIR, a copy of which is with TOI, Yogita Singh stated she went to her ancestral house at Parsmania along with her son, Prithudev Singh, and brother Nagendra Singh Rathore on Thursday afternoon. In her complaint, lodged at Unchehara police station,

Police arrested Sunita Parihar and recovered the rifle used in the firing

she alleged Sunita Parihar, who was staying at the property, began abusing her and asked her to leave the house.

Yogita alleged when she refused to leave, the accused threatened to kill her and opened fire "with intent to kill". She said one bullet struck the left side of her abdomen. She alleged shots were also fired at her sons and that the woman had assaulted her in the past as well.

Family members alleged that multiple rounds were fired during the incident. Speaking to local media, Yogita's mother, Narendra Kumari, claimed Sunita fired multiple rounds from a window.

Yogita was first taken to a hospital in Satna and later shifted to a private hospital in Rewa where she underwent surgery. Doctors said her condition is now stable, but she remains under observation.

"The accused has been arrested, the weapon suspected to have been used in the incident has been recovered and is being examined. Multiple rounds were fired by the accused. A probe is on," Satna SP Hansraj Singh told TOI. Nagod princely state was established in 1478 AD by Parihar Rajputs and merged with the Indian Union in 1950. The state was known as "Unchahara" after Unchehara, its original capital till the 18th century.

Bomb threat note in IndiGo flight lavatory at Lucknow

A bomb threat note, found Friday inside the lavatory of an IndiGo flight at Lucknow airport, led to deboardings and a search lasting over four hours. 6E 2111, on the Ahmedabad–Lucknow–Delhi route, was preparing for takeoff to the national capital with 184 passengers when cabin crew spotted the handwritten note around 11.15am.

Rana was India's tallest sports hero of 1990s

According to a doctor, Rana arrived in critical state, having suffered an acute heart attack that was already three days old. He was returning from the International Shooting Sport Federation World Cup in Munich on Thursday.

"He had been travelling and continued to experience chest pain before arriving at the hospital in a very critical condition," Dr Singh added. He also had severe weakness of the heart muscle, low blood pressure and uncontrolled diabetes.

His mortal remains have been taken to his academy in Dehradun. The last rites are likely to take place in Varanasi. A multiple Asian Games gold medallist, world-record holder and later mentor to Olympic medallists, most significantly Manu Bhaker and her journey to a double bronze at the Paris Olympics two years ago, Rana was a transformative sportsman who made shooting — particularly, the pistol — both glamourous and acceptable in India.

Outspoken and often controversial, Rana first came into prominence as an 18-year-old prodigy who took centre-fire pistol gold at the 1994 Hiroshima Asian Games. As more medals followed, he stood amongst the tallest sports heroes in India of the 1990s, a time when international sporting achievement was relatively modest.

Though he participated at the Centennial Olympics in 1996, and amid much expectation, the 10m air pistol and 50m pistol events would prove daunting. Olympic glory would elude him, as his pet event, the centre-fire doesn't make the Olympic grade. In coaching Manu to the Paris podium, he would realise an unfulfilled dream.

Yet, his early rise and sudden attention would inspire the Uttarkashi-born Rana to take on different roles. One among them was a short-lived, turbulent foray into politics. Born into a politically influential family, BJP fielded him from the Tehri Lok Sabha seat in the 2009 general elections, which he lost to Congress candidate Vijay Bahuguna, later CM of Uttarakhand.

Despite rift, Rahul says DMK with oppn on 'idea of India'

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

LoP slams PM's 'silence' on US ship attacks

New Delhi: Leader of the opposition in Lok Sabha, Rahul Gandhi, said he can vouch for DMK that it will stand with the opposition to defend the "idea of India", in a rare remark about the ally that Congress junked in Tamil Nadu after the recent state elections. He briefly referred to DMK at the INDIA bloc meeting Monday when he accused BJP of orchestrating a campaign to paint the opposition as divided. Congress released a part of Rahul Gandhi slammed PM Modi's silence over the US attacks on ships that have killed three Indians. He said the PM is "compromised" who does not have the courage to displease the forces that killed "sons of Mother India". "When any foreign power murders an Indian, PM has to speak up. But there is no way this PM will utter a word," he said. "Next week at the G7 summit... Modi will smile, embrace, and sign agreements — but for those three Indians, he won't have a word to spare," he added, referring to the likely meeting PM will have with US President Donald Trump. Rahul's speech at the meet Friday. He also told allies that the post-Iran situation will be "uncontrollable", and "it is going to create a space for us to mobilise the masses".

He said BJP can't win the next polls, "which is already won", because people are angry, but the hurdle is that elections will not be free and fair.

Alleging BJP steals elections, Rahul said he had warned "friends in TMC", who were confident they were sweeping Bengal polls, that they were in "dreamland" — stating he had seen it in Gujarat, MP, Chhattisgarh, Haryana and Maharashtra.

Govt notifies order to limit bulk fuel buys during supply stress

Atul.Mathur

New Delhi: Amid a growing shift by industrial and commercial consumers to retail fuel stations to take advantage of lower prices, govt has empowered itself to temporarily restrict bulk purchases of petrol and diesel from pumps during periods of supply stress to prevent shortages, hoarding and diversion of supplies meant for ordinary consumers.

Under the order, institutional, industrial and commercial consumers can be directed not to procure petrol or diesel from retail outlets and instead source their requirements through authorised bulk channels. Retail outlets may also be barred from selling more than 200 litres of diesel to a customer or vehicle in a day, while fuel procured under the provision cannot be resold. The move comes after the ministry observed an unusual surge in fuel sales at retail outlets in May compared with April. Diesel sales rose by more than 30% in 156 districts, with six recording growth of over 100%. Petrol sales at PSU-run fuel stations increased by more than 30% in 150 districts, while 14 districts reported growth exceeding 100%.

Ritabrata claims support of 64 MLAs

Krishnendu Bandopadhyay & Tamaghna Banerjee | TNN

Kolkata: TMC's rebel bloc in Bengal assembly claimed to have grown stronger Friday, with leader of opposition Ritabrata Banerjee asserting that six more MLAs had joined them, taking the camp's strength to 64 legislators, and said a floor test could be conducted to verify support.

"Just as rebel MPs submitted their list to the Lok Sabha speaker in Parliament, the rebel TMC MLAs have also submitted their list to the assembly speaker," he said, adding: "If the speaker feels it is necessary, he can order a floor test. We will prove our strength."

The remarks came after the oath-taking of newly elected MLAs, Debangshu Panda of BJP from Falta and Swati Khandokar of TMC from Chanditala, in the assembly.

"Whether the number increases or not, we will know by Monday or Tuesday," Ritabrata said, refusing to comment on individual legislators. There has been mounting speculation over TMC senior and former Kolkata mayor Firhad Hakim after his recent interaction with Ritabrata and Sandipan Saha.

Pune techie suicide: 2 colleagues booked

Mihir.Tanksale
@timesofindia.com

Pune: Police have booked two women colleagues and a social media friend of the 48-year-old IT professional at a prominent Hinjewadi company for abetting the latter's suicide on June 2.

The case was registered on June 9 based on a suicide note purportedly written by the victim, which cited mental harassment by the trio as the reason behind his extreme step, police said Friday. Police issued a notice to the firm's HR department, directing it to conduct an inquiry against the accused women and secure their presence before police for questioning.

According to the victim's son, his parents had been in touch with a couple on social media since 2024. Trouble began after this social media friend's wife left him and went abroad following differences, and he allegedly blamed the complainant's parents for the separation and began harassing his father.

Don't want interim report: FIP

Prior to that, the final reports of the 2000 Alliance Air Patna crash, 1996 Charkhi Dadri mid-air collision, 1993 Indian Airlines Aurangabad, 1991 Indian Airlines Imphal, and 1990 Indian Airlines Bangalore accident and other accidents were released within a year of occurrence.

Under ICAO's Annex 13, the whole purpose of an investigation is to find out the causes in order to prevent a repeat. The ICAO, therefore, recommends that if a final report cannot be released in 12 months, an interim report should be released to the public on the anniversary, to be repeated annually until the final report is out.

The Federation of Indian Pilots said it had requested govt not to put out an interim report. "Given the controversy surrounding the AI 171 accident, we requested the govt to not release an interim report," said FIP president Capt CS Randhawa. Two conflicting theories — one stating that the pilot sabotaged the aircraft and the other that the B787 suffered a fatal technical fault — have been at the centre of the controversy.

The London-bound AI171 crashed immediately after taking off from Ahmedabad airport on June 12, 2025. Of the 242 people on board, 241 were killed, and 19 other victims were from the ground at the hostel complex of Ahmedabad's B J Medical College that the plane crashed into.

The closest international parallel to AI171 may be Ethiopian Airlines Flight 302, the 2019 Boeing 737 MAX crash that killed 157 people.

Need stronger health systems for robust Arogya Mandirs: IIM study

Jahnavi@timesofindia.com

Bengaluru: India's ambitious plan to transform primary healthcare through Ayushman Arogya Mandirs (AAMs) is being held back by persistent gaps in the health system, including shortages of trained personnel, fragmented digital platforms, medicine supply challenges and financing constraints, according to a study led by the Indian Institute of Management Bangalore (IIMB) along with IIM Shillong, IIM Ranchi and IIM Udaipur.

The report, Management of Ayushman Arogya Mandirs: Challenges and Ways Forward, draws on consultations with policymakers, health administrators and frontline workers in Karnataka, Meghalaya, Mizoram, Jharkhand and Rajasthan. Rather than evaluating individual health centres, it examines how different components of the health system influence the functioning of AAMs. The report was released during the fifth edition of Bringing Evidence into Public Health Policy (EPHP) 2026, at IIMB on Monday.

The study notes that AAMs have considerably expanded the scope of primary healthcare by moving beyond maternal and child health services to include screening and management of non-communicable diseases, mental healthcare, geriatric care and preventive health services. However, the systems needed to support this expanded mandate have not kept pace. "The most significant challenge is the mismatch between the expanding scope of services expected from AAMs and the health system's capacity to support them," said Prof Arnab Mukherji, public policy area at IIMB, and one of the researchers.

The report identifies challenges in health information systems, with participants from focus group discussions pointing to fragmented digital platforms, overlapping reporting requirements and connectivity issues that increase the administrative burden on frontline workers. It also highlights issues relating to medicine availability, diagnostic services, and financing, including delays in fund release and limited financial flexibility at the facility level.

According to Prof Mukherji, many of these challenges have continued despite successive health reforms because they reflect broader weaknesses in the health system. "Health reforms frequently introduce new programmes and service priorities, but the underlying system constraints require sustained, long-term investments and institutional strengthening," he said.

He said improving recruitment and retention of health personnel, particularly in rural and remote areas, strengthening medicine and diagnostic supply chains, integrating digital systems and continuously building the capacity of frontline workers would be critical to strengthening primary healthcare.

"At the same time, strengthening the efficiency of existing systems is equally important. Improving technical efficiencies through streamlined workflows, appropriate task-sharing, and better integration of digital systems can reduce unnecessary burdens on providers. Enhancing allocative efficiencies by aligning investments with local population health needs and service priorities help ensure limited resources are used where they are most needed," he added.

Paper to have four pages for rough work

The retest comes after cancellation of the May 3 exam following paper leak, which is being probed by CBI. NTA has also doubled the rough-work space available in the question booklet. Candidates will now receive four rough-work pages instead of two, providing additional space for calculations, diagrams and making notes.

The agency has also changed the booklet layout. Earlier, rough-work pages were placed at the end of the question paper, but NTA said feedback showed this arrangement was less convenient for some candidates, particularly those who are left-handed. To address this, two rough-work pages will now be placed immediately after the instruction page at the beginning of the booklet, while two will remain at the end.

The revised layout will be available in both English and regional-language versions. The measures, it said, have been introduced to make the exam process more comfortable while maintaining "the highest standards of fairness and security".

A thought for today

I'm not a prophet. I'm not a teacher. I have no degrees. My degree is from the University of Life

Catch 'Em Young

IIT Kanpur's made a smart move by hiring Nisarga

Nisarga Adhikary, the 19-year-old who became a household name last month, after exposing flaws in CBSE's on-screen marking system, has made it to IIT Kanpur. Not as a student, but as an employee. He'll work as open-source intelligence and threat intelligence engineer, for which he's already demonstrated capability. That's a very smart move by IIT. By not letting Nisarga's age and brief CV – he passed Class 12 this year – stand in the way, it's shown a startup's agility. And since Nisarga himself doesn't set store by degrees – "You don't need a degree to be an engineer" – employer and employee are on the same page.

Doubters might wonder whether 19 isn't too young for a full-time job in a critical role. They only have to look at David Dworken, now a security engineer at Anthropic, who became famous as an 18-year-old, back in 2016. David participated in Pentagon's Bug Bounty programme while appearing for his high school exams, and revealed some vulnerabilities in its public websites. There's also Marcus Hutchins, who found a 'kill switch' for WannaCry ransomware that spread to over 100 countries in 2017, and cost $4bn-$8bn globally. Marcus had a dark past. As a teen, he had built malware named Kronos and UPAS Kit, for which he was arrested in US. But his ethical turn as a 'white hat' saved the world a lot of trouble.

So, IIT Kanpur's confidence in Nisarga is well-founded. And Indian institutions should tap such young talent more often. In fact, Pentagon-style bounty programmes can save them the kind of embarrassment CBSE went through. They're also cheap. Where a US Dept of Defence contractor charged $5mn over three years, and found only 10 vulnerabilities, bug hunters like David revealed more than 130 in days, for a total bounty payment of $75,000.

Football's Much Moreness

Shakira called: Dai Dai. So, see you in July

Why is it goosebumps every time the ball rolls slow motion on wet grass? Why is it goosebumps every time the stadium erupts? We've seen these a thousand times, and yet, every time, it's a thrill like no other. For a moment there, at Mexico City's World Cup inauguration – the world was (deceptively) delightful. The beautiful life was full-on: Estadio Azteca stadium glittered and shimmied, boasting football heritage like no other, as it hosted the rare third World Cup. A trilogy of inaugurations this edition – US and Canada have their own ahead of the first match in their country – may put on spectacles too, but Azteca's already Word. As Italian tenor Bocelli and singer EJAE sang: "It's more than just a game, it's our DNA" – of the three, only Mexico can claim that. And only World Cups turn emotional even before a single kick.

From Waka Waka in 2010 South Africa, to Dai Dai in Mexico, the years collapsed for World Cup queen Shakira, who hit the pitch with an electric performance. As a fan said: "I was 7 then, Shakira 22. I'm now 23, Shakira's 22." The powerhouse, of Lebanese and Catalan descent, raised in Colombia, who has said living in US as an immigrant means "living in constant fear", epitomises football beyond the sport – a hard political epic of migration & movement, contests, collaboration, conquest. No one knew this better than the protesters (unpaid teachers and families of missing people) outside Azteca – heart in the game, feet on the ground. The fight is on.

When World Cup Meets Americana

Four podcasts that decode Fifa 2026

For many, the build-up to the 2026 Fifa World Cup in US, Mexico and Canada has been confusing, at times odd, and in some cases not very welcoming. With a majority of the matches slated to take place in Trump's America – a country where football (or soccer) isn't even among the top three sports – there have been concerns that the tournament will be a real dud. But football has a way of reigniting passions once there is kick-off. And football podcasts are doing a great job of bringing the conversation back to the aspects of the game that really matter.

In Stick to Football, English footballing legends Gary Neville, Jamie Carragher, Roy Keane, and Ian Wright talk about what could be the most crucial factor in this World Cup – the heat. Across North America – but particularly in US and Mexico – temperatures have risen dramatically over the years, making playing conditions challenging. So, teams that are able to manage conditions better are likely to go further in the tournament.

SHORT TAKES ON BIG IDEAS

This, in turn, puts an interesting twist on the participation of some of the new teams making their World Cup debut – Cape Verde, Curaçao, Jordan and Uzbekistan. Given their home conditions, they might be able to withstand the heat in North America better than major European squads.

In The Rest Is Football, another bunch of English legends, Gary Lineker, Alan Shearer, and Micah Richards, talk about prospects of different teams. For England, much rests on captain and striker Harry Kane. But pundits were also looking to the performance of England goalie Jordan Pickford who, statistically, is the best English goalkeeper in decades. And with the possibility of crunch matches going down to penalties, Pickford's role could be crucial.

But what about France? Pundits believe they are one of the two most talented sides in the tournament – the other being Spain. But France can also suddenly implode – a case of too much talent not always working in cohesion. Kylian Mbappé is obviously the key marksman in the squad. But he needs to do more work off the ball.

And Messi? Well, Shearer feels he is one World Cup further than optimum. But no one can dispute his place in the Argentine side – he remains their hero and talisman.

In The Totally Football Show with James Richardson, podcasting from Los Angeles, the discussion is on the atmosphere at this World Cup. In Mexico City, it's electric with murals of players covering every bare wall. The discussion then veers to Somali referee Omar Artan, who was denied entry to US, and sent back to his country. Artan is the top African referee, but Trump's tough policies on immigration and foreigners denied him his moment in the sun.

The podcast then moves to Fifa boss Gianni Infantino's pre-kick-off press conference. When pressed on Artan, Infantino told reporters to "chill out". But he was adamant that Fifa's much controversial ticketing system for this World Cup, which has seen ticket prices skyrocket, was the way to go. The podcast says this sums up how much Fifa has had to mollycoddle Trump to get this World Cup on the road.

In The Athletic FC Podcast, focus was on the expanded 48-team format of this World Cup. That means an extra 40 matches, taking the total to 104 – impossible to watch all. Conversely, it means there are greater chances of upsets. So, hold on to your seats as the greatest sporting extravaganza unfolds.

SpaceX And The Business Of Hope

Buying shares, like voting, is often about getting hooked by a great story selling a dream. That's what Musk offered in his IPO, and he has the creds when it comes to promising a shiny future

Arnab Ray

LA-based computer scientist

Human beings like to imagine themselves as rational creatures. We pore over balance sheets, compare interest rates, read expert opinions, and insist that our decisions are grounded in evidence. Yet, history suggests otherwise. We don't live by logic alone. We live on stories. More importantly, we live on hope.

Poor people often vote against their immediate economic interests, because they don't think of themselves as poor, but as temporarily embarrassed millionaires. They are rich people in exile, waiting for their turn to arrive.

That same instinct shapes financial markets. People don't merely buy shares. They buy futures in which they themselves are protagonists. Every investment is, in some sense, a bet on a story about tomorrow, which helps explain why the SpaceX IPO has generated such extraordinary excitement.

On paper, this fascination can seem excessive. Space is hard. Rockets explode. Missions fail. The economics are uncertain. Even the most optimistic projections involve technological, regulatory, political risks that would make a cautious accountant break into a cold sweat. Yet, none of that captures what investors actually see when they hear the word "SpaceX". They see Captain Kirk boldly going where no man has gone before.

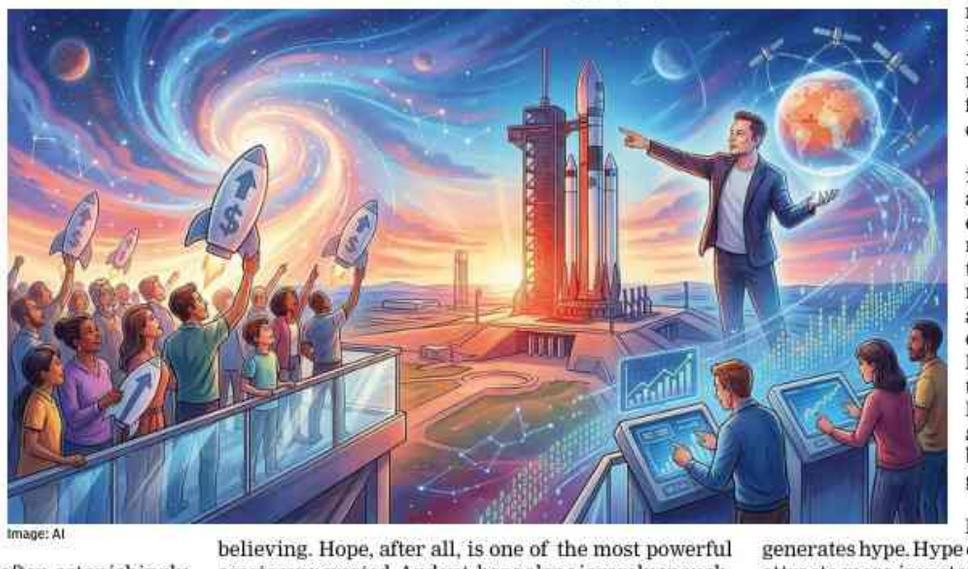

Image: AI

The most successful ideas are often astonishingly simple. Not simple in execution, but in explanation. Investors understand an online bookstore. They understand a social media network, a smartphone, electric cars. By contrast, companies that solve highly technical, specialised problems often struggle to attract attention, even when their businesses are excellent. The average person can't explain what they do in a sentence. Venture capitalists may appreciate them, but the public rarely falls in love with them.

SpaceX possesses the opposite advantage. Its mission can be summarised by a child. It builds rockets. It wants to take humans into space. Eventually, perhaps, it wants to take them to Mars.

For generations, space exploration occupied a unique place in the human imagination. Moon landing wasn't merely a scientific achievement, but a civilisational event. It represented adventure, ambition, belief that tomorrow could be bigger than today.

Then, the future became strangely earthbound. We built apps, optimised ads. We created algorithms that persuade people to click on things. Valuable, perhaps. Inspiring, not always. SpaceX reintroduced something that had been missing from business for decades: Wonder. Investors may tell themselves they are evaluating launch economics, satellite revenues, defence contracts. Some undoubtedly are. But many are responding to something more emotional. They are buying a ticket to the future.

That future may never arrive exactly as promised. Most futures don't. But that's never stopped people from believing. Hope, after all, is one of the most powerful assets ever created. And yet, hope alone is rarely enough. Every age is littered with charismatic dreamers promising utopia. Scepticism remains the natural response whenever someone claims they're going to change the world. Or, in this case, the galaxy.

This is where Elon Musk enters the story. Ordinarily, the idea of colonising Mars would sound like the sort of thing discussed at three in the morning, by someone who has had too much coffee, watched too much sci-fi. But Musk arrives with receipts.

Before Tesla, conventional wisdom held that electric cars were niche products destined for environmental enthusiasts and wealthy hobbyists. Established carmakers largely ignored the sector. Experts doubted that EVs could compete with petrol-powered vehicles at scale. Then Tesla happened.

Whether one loves or loathes Musk, the fact remains that he achieved something many considered impossible. More importantly, he created enormous wealth while doing so. Thousands of investors who backed Tesla early became millionaires. That history changes everything. People are far more willing to believe an improbable promise when it comes from someone who has already delivered an improbable success.

In financial markets, credibility is often transferable. Success in one arena creates faith in another. Investors look at Tesla and conclude that perhaps the impossible isn't quite so impossible after all. This logic may be imperfect. Building rockets isn't the same as building cars. Past success doesn't guarantee future success.

But human beings aren't computers. We reason through narratives. And the narrative here is irresistible: Musk made fortunes in electric vehicles, perhaps he will make fortunes in space. Add one final ingredient and the recipe is complete: Influence.

We live in an era where attention is currency. Visibility matters almost as much as performance. CEOs once communicated through annual reports. Today, they communicate through social media. Musk isn't merely a businessman. He's arguably the most influential corporate personality on the planet. He commands audiences larger than many news organisations. He owns X. Every launch, every announcement, every prediction becomes part of a continuous global conversation.

Result is a feedback loop. Hope attracts attention. Attention generates hype. Hype creates fear of missing out. FOMO attracts more investors. More investors generate more attention. And the cycle continues.

This doesn't mean SpaceX is overvalued. Nor does it mean the company is destined for failure. SpaceX may ultimately justify every expectation placed upon it. It may even exceed them. That isn't the point. The point is that the enthusiasm surrounding SpaceX can't be understood through financial analysis alone.

To understand SpaceX, one must understand the mind of people, who regret missing out on the chance to make millions that friend at work made who bought Apple in the early 2000s, people who believe in a simple story, as old as time, to reach the final frontier, sold by a man who has made a trillion off their dreams.

How 'Biryani' Slowed The Birth Rate. Phew

That comedy show? Where guys talked about demanding intimacy because they had bought their date a meal? Obviously, that totally puts off women. And, that's good news. Because, god knows, we don't need more children

Radhika Vaz

India's fertility rate has finally declined. While I am a feminist, this is one place I am willing to hand men the bulk of the credit. Their hideously entitled behaviour has finally repulsed the female of the species, and for the first time, an entire generation of Indian women are saying we are DONE.

I can't tell you how excited I am. So much so that when I heard about a man who demanded physical intimacy from a woman in exchange for a plate of chicken biryani, I was thrilled. Yes, I screamed. Yes! Keep this up, men, be cruder and even more despicable. We need you and your country needs you. What every politician and social worker since Independence has been struggling to do for decades, you spoilt imbecilic man-children have accomplished in the blink of a viral video. I tip my wig to you all.

We always thought that education alone would stem the tide of our exploding population. But we were going about it the old-fashioned way, with pamphlets and lectures and free condoms and forced sterilisations and pithy slogans. None of it worked and we scratched our ageing heads wondering what on earth to do. What we did not count on was our men!

Which is shocking, in and of itself, given we have put them on a pedestal and let them run everything – from the country, to the corporate, to the community. But never in a million irony-clad years did we think they would be the ones to teach our daughters to say NO.

That being said, all this heavy lifting could not have been achieved by the incels and alphas alone. So, let me go further back and give credit where it is really due – to the parents of our man-children. Thank you, mummy and daddy, thank you for birthing these nitwits and sending them out into the world, without any instruction on how to be men.

If you people had taken the time to discuss dating, consent, and basic human decency, I shudder to think where we would be – a far cry from the superpower we are about to become, no doubt. Every single time that you turned a blind eye and said

STORIES OF THE WAY WE ARE

Image: AI

'boys will be boys' has finally paid off. Now, no one wants to be near your sons.

This roundabout way of solving our most pressing developmental issue seems to be working. And, while I am a patriot first and last, I do believe the globe has enough Indians. So let us take a break from the breeding and see where that gets us. Or is that too scary? Do we think that if we give women some time off from diaper duty, they might actually realise that marriage and motherhood was never a necessity but a choice – a choice that, given who they have to marry, is becoming increasingly less attractive.

Thus far, we have managed to systemically fool women into believing they had to pair up. We did this by carefully curating a country in which single women feel uncomfortable and unfortunate, at best, and unsafe, at worst. We sold them the idea that they need a man for status, stability and safety, that without a man they would be socially, emotionally and physically at risk. In passing these patterns down the generations, we normalised the horrific male chauvinistic behaviour that is now on display.

So now, what we're seeing is not just pathetic dating etiquette, or one-off bad behaviour, it is a personality type. A type of man whose misogyny runs so deep that it's not just that he thinks a woman owes him for chicken biryani. He believes she owes him. Period. He believes he should be compensated for any interaction he deigns to have with a woman. She should remain in a permanent state of gratitude, always ready to give whatever he demands, and if she doesn't, well, he will just take it and later brag to everyone on the internet.

But. This time, something may have snapped. It feels like women have collectively decided chicken biryani is not so enticing after all. That they would rather go without, than put up with one more lousy plate, I mean date. And if men don't sit up and take notice, they are going to end up eating chicken biryani with each other. This is how the revolution begins, good people, and how it ends is by contributing greatly to a dwindling birth rate.

Sacred*space*

Most people believe the mind to be a mirror, more or less accurately reflecting the world outside them, not realising on the contrary that the mind is itself the principal element of creation.

Rabindranath Tagore

You Are Not Your Mind

Sadhvi Bhagawati Saraswati

When was the last time you said, 'i am happy,' or 'i am angry,' or 'i am frustrated?' When was the last time you explained your state of being as caused by a reaction in your mind to something that happened outside of you? 'You made me angry.' 'He infuriates me.' 'I can't take her anymore.' Most of us say things like this to ourselves and others pretty constantly.

Try this first: A 60-second exercise

Before reading any further, take just a moment and close your eyes. Allow the breath to slow and bring your awareness to your breath low in your abdomen, below your belly button. Just anchor there for a few seconds. Then, very deliberately, start repeating the word 'Hate' over and over in your mind. Hate. Hate. Hate. Hate. Keep repeating it for about 30 seconds. Then stop. Return to your breath for a moment and then start repeating the word 'Love'. Over and over. Love. Love. Love. Love. Do that for 30 seconds. Then return to your breath for a few moments.

Do you notice a difference in the way your body feels between the two words? For most of us, hate causes contraction, tightening, while love causes opening, expansion, and a loosening of tension. If you've forgotten already, do it again – it's only a 60-second exercise.

What this reveals about you

I share this exercise for two critical reasons. First: our thoughts, emotions, mind, and body are intricately linked. There is no separation. The neurotransmitters flooding synapses in our brains are speaking directly and loudly to the walls of our intestines, to our immune system, to our adrenal glands. So, nothing is ever 'just in the mind'.

THE SPEAKING TREE

But the second reason is far more important. It is this: You are not your thoughts or your mind. You were there whether hate or love was being repeated. You were the conductor, not the instrument being played. You were the one in charge.

The ability to determine what we think, how we think, and the state of our minds is an inherent part of our human capacity. This is what neuroscience calls 'emotional regulation' and what the yogis have called sakshi, witness consciousness, for thousands of years.

If we are the watcher – the witness consciousness, the one who is aware – then by definition we are not the mind.

Most of us don't realise this. We say, 'i am angry,' or 'i am depressed,' or 'i can't control my temper.' Or my anxiety. Or my addiction. But what our rishis have been telling us for thousands of years is that our minds are in our hands, as long as we are paying attention.

The one who was always watching

Anchoring our sense of identity in that pure, unchanging, unchangeable light of awareness is the key – not only to emotional and mental health, not only to healing anxiety, depression, and the endless turbulence of the monkey mind – but to freedom itself.

There is a teaching that says: mana eva manushyanam karanam bandha mokshayoh. Mind alone is the cause of both bondage and liberation. Fuse with its monkey nature and you live in constant bondage. Extricate yourself from that identification and – through re-identifying as the knower of the mind, the witness consciousness, the observer self – set yourself free.

Sensex jumps 1.7k points as US, Iran inch closer to deal

Crude Prices Ease To Below $90 | Rupee Rises 65p To 95.11

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Mumbai: As talks of a peace deal in West Asia revived on Thursday night, sending Dow Jones up over 900 points and pulling Brent crude prices below the $90-per-barrel mark, the rub-off effect was felt on Dalal Street on Friday. Sensex, after rising more than 1,000 points in early trades, and dipping slightly mid-session, closed 1,695 points up at 75,528 points. The fall in crude oil prices also strengthened the rupee against the dollar.

On Thursday, after issuing threats on an imminent US strike on Iran, President Donald Trump reversed his stand, saying a deal with the country was nearing. This statement also prompted crude prices to slide sharply. At one point, Brent crude prices fell to $85.8, a three-month low.

Part of the rise in the domestic market, especially during the last hour of trading, was attributed to short covering by traders who had earlier bet on a slide in the market, dealers said.

The day's rise in sensex was the third-best single-session points gain for the index in 2026. Friday's market rally made investors richer by Rs 9.7 lakh crore with BSE's market capitalisation now at Rs 462 lakh crore, exchange data showed.

According to Siddhartha Khemka of Motilal Oswal Financial Services, reports indicating that negotiations between the US and Iran were nearing completion, reduced fears of prolonged disruptions to global crude oil supplies, pushing oil prices below the $90 per barrel mark. "The sharp market recovery suggests that investors are beginning to price in a more favourable geopolitical outcome. While a formal agreement remains pending, the moderation in crude oil prices and the appreciation of the rupee against the dollar have improved the near-term outlook for domestic equities."

Going forward, global cues will remain important, with the US Federal Reserve's policy meeting and US industrial production data likely to provide direction to financial markets, Khemka said.

"Additionally, developments in the US-Iran negotiations, crude oil price movements and foreign fund flows will remain key factors influencing market sentiment."

The day's gains were backed by strong buying by domestic funds while foreign funds continued to be net sellers. At the close of the session, while domestic institutional investors reported a net inflow of Rs 5,341 crore, foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) were net sellers at Rs 1,082 crore, BSE data showed.

The rising possibility of a US-Iran peace agreement that pulled crude oil prices down, strengthened the rupee on Friday. The Indian currency opened more than 40 paise firmer from Thursday's close at 95.76/$, briefly traded above 95 and finally settled at 95.11, up 65 paise for the day.

Majority Owner Tata Group Tells Airline To Focus On Reducing Its Record Losses

Air India is looking to defer aircraft deliveries, cut flights and postpone expansion plans after majority owner Tata Group instructed the carrier to focus on reducing its record losses, according to people familiar with the matter.

The change in strategy is an abrupt pivot from an ambitious growth plan. It reflects the loss of confidence in an airline that suffered a fatal crash a year ago and has since incurred an annual loss equivalent to about $3 billion (Rs 28,500 crore approximately).

The downsizing will involve a variety of efforts to reduce costs. Air India is in discussions with Airbus and Boeing to slow down deliveries of as many as 500 planes previously ordered, said the people, who asked not to be identified because the talks are private. Doing so would enable Air India to push back the large payments due to plane makers upon delivery.

The carrier is also reevaluating plans to fly to new domestic and international destinations, pruning some routes and postponing launches at some airports, such as the new Noida International Airport, the people familiar with the matter said.

Air India's cowed ambitions follow a series of challenges that have pushed it deep into the red. The deadly crash last June, Pakistan closing its airspace to Indian carriers, and the war in Iran have disrupted flights, forced costly rerouting and driven up fuel expenses. The weak Indian rupee has also added to its financial woes since much of the airline's costs are in dollars. The Tata Group, which took over the national carrier in 2022, now wants Air India to temper its growth strategy to focus on stabilising current operations and implement cost-cutting measures, people familiar with the matter said. Air India earlier this year announced flight cuts due to the Iran war and airspace shutdowns. An Air India spokesperson said the Bloomberg queries were highly speculative, and the carrier remains committed to modernising its fleet and carrying out its long-term transformation plan.

Tata and Airbus didn't respond to requests for comment. A Boeing spokesperson declined to comment.

The flag carrier, which operates its namesake Air India full-service airline and low-cost arm Air India Express, has been losing money for more than a decade even though revenue and operations have grown on the back of the country's strong economic expansion and surging travel demand. Air India previously ordered a combined 600 aircraft from Airbus and Boeing during 2023 and 2024, and then put in more orders early this year as part of an aggressive fleet expansion. The bulk of its deliveries are expected in 2027 and 2028, the people said. Airlines typically spread out payments for jets over several years, with the biggest cash outlay — which can be about 80% of the purchase price — coming when they are handed over. BLOOMBERG

'Elon Musk doesn't have net worth, he has a GDP'

Naturally, the internet reacted with its usual restraint. On Musk's own platform, X, one user quipped: "Elon doesn't have a net worth anymore. He has a GDP." Another observed: "At this point, Jeff Bezos is basically middle class."

The achievement also revived one of Wall Street's favourite pastimes: arguing over whether Musk is a genius, a gambler, or some hybrid species created when Thomas Edison or Isaac Newton collided with an internet troll. His supporters see a visionary who electrified the auto industry, revolutionised space launches, and turned sci-fi fantasies into business plans. Critics argue he overpromises, under-delivers, tweets first — and increasingly racist stuff — and thinks later. Both sides can now agree on one thing: the man knows how to monetise audacity.

For decades, becoming world's richest person meant controlling oil fields, banks, railroads, or software monopolies. Musk's fortune, by contrast, rests on electric cars, reusable rockets, AI bets, brain chips, and social media feuds conducted at 2am.

The SpaceX listing marks a remarkable turnaround for an industry once dependent almost entirely on govt contracts. Investors are now pouring money into the final frontier, proving that if there's one thing humanity loves more than exploration, it's the possibility of quarterly returns from exploration.

Retail inflation inches up to five-month high in May

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

New Delhi: Retail inflation based on consumer price index (CPI) inched up for the fourth consecutive month to 3.9% in May from 3.5% in April on account of acceleration in food prices, data released by NSO on Friday showed. The food index rose 4.8% in May, above 4.2% in the preceding month.

Despite the staggered increase in retail fuel prices during the past month in the backdrop of persisting conflict in West Asia, fuel inflation remained contained at 0.8% in May, though marginally higher than 0.7% in April.

Economists expect the pass through to become visible in June. Dipti Deshpande, principal economist at Crisil said food inflation rose due to persistent high temperatures, which drove up prices of vegetables, dairy products and eggs. "Part of the estimated 36 basis points (100 basis points equal a percentage point) direct impact on CPI from cumulative Rs 7.5 a litre hike in fuel prices is already visible, with the remaining pass through expected in June," she said.

Madan Sabnavis, chief economist at Bank of Baroda said inflation is expected to move upwards at a differential pace in the coming months, depending on transmission of higher energy prices to different products.

Core inflation, after stripping out volatile food and fuel components, hovers around 4%. Data showed that services under the "personal care, social protection and miscellaneous goods and services" category recorded highest inflation at 18.5% in May, higher than 17.7% in April due to slight acceleration in gold and silver prices. The other area within services where prices have gone up sharply was restaurants (5.8%), a direct impact of rising energy and food raw material prices.

Prices in rural areas rose at a sharper pace (4.3%) compared to urban areas (3.5%). DBS Bank senior economist Radhika Rao said India's inflation is still within RBI's 2-6% target, and "less of an immediate policy concern" and is consistent with the central bank's view that current inflation readings remain manageable.

Byju's founder gets relief as S'pore court stays order

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Bengaluru: Byju Raveendran secured a temporary reprieve after the Singapore High Court stayed key provisions of an earlier order sentencing him to six months in prison for civil contempt. In a statement on Friday, his legal counsel, Lazareff Le Bars, said the General Division of the Singapore High Court stayed the committal and surrender provisions of the May 25 contempt order on June 10. As a result, Raveendran will not be required to surrender on June 15 as previously directed.

The law firm also said it filed an appeal against the contempt ruling.

The stay marks the latest development in a long-running cross-border legal battle involving the Byju's founder, lenders and investors.

Last month, the Singapore court sentenced Raveendran to six months in jail for contempt arising from alleged non-compliance with asset disclosure orders. The ruling became a flashpoint in an ongoing dispute between Raveendran and the Qatar Investment Authority (QIA), one of Byju's investors.

Avataar unveils India-focused AI video model Varya

Aabhas.Sharma
@timesofindia.com

New Delhi: India's efforts to build indigenous AI models received a boost this week as Avataar AI unveiled Varya, a video generation model designed to better understand Indian cultural contexts while significantly reducing the cost of AI video creation.

The Bengaluru-based startup, backed by Peak XV Partners and selected under govt's India AI Mission, said the model can recognise local nuances including festivals, clothing, food and architecture — areas where global AI models have often struggled or produced stereotypical outputs.

The launch comes as India is looking to establish a stronger presence in AI development. Electronics and IT secretary S Krishnan said, "Varya represents the kind of research-led capability building that we seek to enable." Instead of building a model from scratch, Avataar used Alibaba's open-source Wan 2.2 video model and applied a technique known as distillation to create a smaller and faster version tailored to its requirements.

US court dismisses patent claims against Hexaware

Bengaluru: IT firm Hexaware said a US court dismissed all claims brought against it by Natsoft and its affiliate, Updraft, in a patent infringement lawsuit involving the company's automation and AI platforms. The court dismissed Natsoft's claims covering nine patents across two patent families on June 9. According to Hexaware, the court found that the patents asserted by Natsoft were directed at broad, abstract ideas rather than specific inventions, making them ineligible for patent protection under US law. Despite rocky yr, Tata Sons records high profit growth

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Mumbai: Tata Sons' board met on Friday to approve the company's financial results for the year ended March 31, 2026, recommending a dividend to equity shareholders, even as it kept chairman N Chandrasekaran's reappointment off the agenda for a second consecutive time.

"The board stuck to the agenda and there was no discussion on controversial matters," said a person familiar with the proceedings.

Tata Sons is understood to have recorded high-teens profit growth in FY26, a result that strengthens Chandrasekaran's hand as he faces questions from Noel Tata, chairman of principal shareholder Tata Trusts, over losses at the company's new businesses, including Tata Digital. Growth came despite lower dividend income from operating companies, including a reduced payout from TCS.

Proceeds from sale of Tata Capital shares via an IPO last Sept bolstered profits.

N Chandrasekaran's reappointment as chairman was off the agenda for a second consecutive time

Tata Sons profit in FY25 stood at Rs 26,232 crore.

Tata Trusts, which owns about 65% of Tata Sons, will be the primary beneficiary of the dividend.

Noel Tata holds 4,058 shares in his personal capacity. The dividend applies only to equity shareholders, as Tata Sons had previously redeemed its preference shares as part of a broader strategy to retire debt and sidestep RBI's mandatory listing rules. Noel Tata is not in favour of a public listing of Tata Sons.

In FY25, Tata Sons paid a dividend of Rs 64,900 per ordinary share.

The board also approved remuneration for directors and key management personnel, following a recommendation by the nomination and remuneration committee chaired by Harish Manwani. Chandrasekaran, whose remuneration stands at Rs 156 crore, ranks among the highest-paid professional chiefs in India.

A smiling Chandrasekaran declined to comment on the board meeting or other matters as he left Bombay House, Tata Group's HQ.

AI darlings, semicon cos elbow Cognizant out of Nasdaq-100

Shilpa.Phadnis

Bengaluru: Despite posting a strong first quarter and raising its full-year outlook, Cognizant is set to be dropped from the Nasdaq-100 Index after more than two decades, making way for a new crop of companies benefiting from the artificial intelligence boom.

The IT services company's exclusion reflects its relative market capitalisation rather than its recent operating performance. With an intraday market capitalisation of about $24.5 billion on Friday, Cognizant's valuation has lagged many peers even as investor enthusiasm for AI-native firms has surged over the past two years.

The Nasdaq-100, which tracks the 100 largest non-financial companies listed on the Nasdaq exchange, is among the world's most closely watched equity benchmarks. More than 200 investment products track the index, with over $800 billion in assets under management globally. Inclusion in the index often boosts visibility and attracts passive investment flows, while exclusion can trigger selling by index-tracking funds. Analysts said the risk of Cognizant losing its place in the benchmark had been apparent for several months as its market value failed to keep pace with newer technology companies tied to AI infrastructure, cloud computing and semiconductor ecosystems.

Some analysts also viewed Cognizant's accelerated share repurchase programme over the past year as an effort to support shareholder returns and bolster market capitalisation amid concerns that it could be pushed out of the index.

2-DECADE RUN

As part of Nasdaq's annual reconstitution, Astera Labs, CoreWeave, Nebius Group, Rocket Lab and Teradyne will join the Nasdaq-100. They will replace Charter Communications, Cognizant, Insmed, Verisk Analytics and Zscaler.

The reshuffle highlights how rapidly the AI boom is redrawing the technology landscape. Investors have rewarded companies seen as direct beneficiaries of the AI buildout, while more traditional technology and IT services firms have struggled to match their valuation gains.

For Cognizant, the move comes despite improving business performance under CEO Ravi Kumar. The company has positioned itself as an AI services provider, highlighted a growing AI-led sales pipeline, and reported improving demand across key verticals. However, those gains have not translated into the kind of market-value expansion seen among companies at the centre of the AI ecosystem.

In May, Cognizant's board approved a $2 billion increase to its share repurchase programme and doubled its 2026 buyback target to $2 billion from $1 billion previously. The additional $1 billion in repurchases is expected to be completed during the Sept quarter.

The board also authorised a further $2 billion increase to the company's existing stock repurchase programme, taking the total remaining repurchase capacity to about $3.4 billion. An email sent to Cognizant did not elicit a response till press time.

Wipro ordered to honour full bonus promise

Shilpa.Phadnis
@timesofindia.com

Bengaluru: A UK employment appeals tribunal has ruled that Wipro must pay a former sales executive the full value of a performance bonus linked to a major contract win. The ruling rejects the company's attempt to cap the payout at $150,000 and potentially leaves Wipro liable for an additional payment of about $547,000 (around £400,000).

The Employment Appeal Tribunal (EAT) found that former Wipro employee P. Chandrashekarappa was entitled to receive 1% of the first-year revenues from a contract he helped secure with UK retailer John Lewis Partnership (JLP), less the amount the company already paid. The ruling overturns an earlier employment tribunal decision that had sided with Wipro. According to the judgment, 1% of the first-year revenues from the John Lewis contract amounted to £516,082, or roughly $697,000. Chandrashekarappa was paid only $150,000 after Wipro imposed a payout cap, leaving a shortfall of approximately $547,000.

The dispute centres on a "kitty bonus" scheme Wipro introduced in March 2020 to reward employees for winning new business. Under the programme, sales personnel could receive up to 1% of invoiced revenue from a new customer during the first year, subject to approval by a sector head. No cap on payouts was mentioned when the scheme was presented to employees. Chandrashekarappa, who worked in Wipro's Cloud and Infrastructure Services division, played a key role in securing the John Lewis account. After the deal was signed in June 2020, his manager sought approval for the bonus from Kiran Desai, then senior vice-president and global head of the division. Desai approved the recommendation that the employee receive the full 1% payout.

UK court judgment reinforces that employers cannot retrospectively impose bonus caps after approving incentive awards to employees

However, the tribunal found that Wipro's HR and compensation teams later introduced additional conditions, including a requirement for higher-level approval and a $150,000 cap. Internal emails cited in the judgment showed the company's concerns about introducing restrictions after the scheme had already been communicated to employees. An earlier employment tribunal had accepted Wipro's argument that the bonus remained discretionary until formally communicated to the employee and therefore could be capped. The appeals tribunal disagreed, ruling that once Desai approved the award under the terms originally communicated, Chandrashekarappa acquired a legal entitlement to the full bonus. Judge Bruce Carr KC said Wipro was not entitled to "move the goalposts" by subsequently imposing new approval requirements or a payout cap.

Trump casts doubt on Iran deal after declaring it nearly sealed

Prez Slams Tehran For Leaking 'Fake Terms'; Iran Says 'Indeed Close To A Deal'

Chidanand Rajghatta | TNN

Washington: "Taco Thursday" has turned to faltering Friday as a sketchy American peace deal with Iran remained tantalisingly out of reach despite US President Donald Trump's optimistic projections just hours earlier.

Trump himself appeared to reel back expectations on Friday morning calling Iranians "very dishonourable people to deal with" after alleging that "terms that Iran leaked out to the Fake News have NOTHING to do with the terms that were agreed to, in writing".

"What they said, including their weak and pathetic statement on having a deal, bears no relation to the truth...With them, there is no such thing as dealing in good faith. AMAZING!" Trump wrote on Truth Social, while accusing Iran of attacking Indian ships.

Just hours before unloading at Iran, Trump had announced that an agreement was virtually a done deal, going so far as to indicate it would be signed in Switzerland, most likely by vice president JD Vance, who is expected to attend a G7 meeting in the nearby French Alps town of Evian. But evidently, one or both sides have a completely different version or interpretation of what has been agreed upon, based on mediation by Qatar and Pakistan. Tehran, as per its state-aligned media, believes that the deal would result in immediate release of frozen Iranian assets to the tune of $24 billion.

According to IRNA, the Iranian state media outlet, the Strait of Hormuz would be handled through a partnership between Iran and Oman, and Lebanon would be part of any deal to end the fighting. The interim deal also does not cover Iran's nuclear programme which would be discussed in talks during a 60-day extended ceasefire. Those Iranian "red lines," flashed over social media, led Trump critics in the US to cry "Taco" – Trump Always Chickens Out – triggering an angry smackdown on the reporting from the President and his deputy.

Vance, now increasingly seen as being adrift from the President on several issues, offered his own clarification seeking to bridge the gap with his boss in a post on X in which he clarified that the Iranians "are not receiving any cash, and no funds are being released for simply signing a deal or attending a meeting." "The deal is structured to ensure that the US and its allies' concerns are prioritised, and that if Iran meets its obligations, then economic benefits will flow to them and to the entire region. This deal has the potential to remake the region and lead to lasting peace," he wrote.

Vance also implicitly criticised the "bizarre" reporting in sections of the press, including in the conservative media, that believes Trump is folding, saying, "The president is going to get us a good outcome, one way or the other."

Trump followed it up by reposting a message from Iranian foreign minister Seyad Abbas Aragchi that indicated the two sides are indeed close to a deal. "The Islamabad Memorandum of Understanding has never been closer. Pending its finalisation, the media should refrain from entering speculation about its content. In line with our responsible and transparent approach, all details will be shared with the public in due course," Araghchi wrote, without specifying which media he is referring to. Trump has repeatedly suggested there is a rift in the Iranian leadership between the moderates and the mullahs.

Meanwhile, the US President continues to get scalded in the American media for his repeated claims (40 by one count) that a deal is imminent, assertions that are now greeted with the fatigue experienced by weary travellers repeatedly told their delayed flight is expected to depart shortly. "Many people are saying a deal is coming. Nobody announces deals better; we are going to have a deal like you've never seen before (terms and conditions apply)," one wag quipped, borrowing from the MAGA supremo's customary expressions.

Pakistan says peace deal text 'agreed'

Pakistan's PM Shehbaz Sharif said Friday that the final text of a US-Iran peace deal had been agreed. "We can confirm that a final, agreed upon text of the peace deal has been reached and Pakistan is now working closely with both sides to finalize the next steps," Sharif posted on X. "Peace has never been as close as it is now," Sharif said. "Amid ongoing intense mediation efforts by Pakistan, we are fully aware of incessant misinformation campaign being waged by those who want to sabotage the peace deal," Sharif added. AFP

Iran-linked group claims hack of FBI drones

Washington An Iran-linked hacker group claims to have breached FBI drones and has threatened to target the World Cup that kicked off this week, a monitoring group said Friday.

The SITE Intelligence Group, an organization which monitors jihadist groups, published a statement from Handala saying they had had access "for months" to "every image and every suspect" captured by first-person view (FPV) drones used by the FBI. The hackers said the drones featured facial recognition and license plate screening deployed for counterterrorism. "Better tighten your World Cup security, we don't like some of those teams at all. Don't forget: FPVs are everywhere; you never know when one might end up right in your team's bus," Handala said in the statement quoted by SITE. The FBI is deploying drones around World Cup stadiums to protect against unauthorized aircraft.

Drone flights will be banned over US stadiums hosting matches, as well as over fan events related to the tournament that kicked off on Thursday. The justice department has previously warned of the potential for cyberattacks by Iranian actors following the US-Israeli strikes on Tehran.

Handala published photos and footage that it said were taken from the hacked drones, but SITE disputed that claim. One video of the supposed hack was in fact produced by a software platform in Dec 2024 to promote a US police department's use of its technology for surveying tornado damage, SITE said. Handala claimed in March to have hacked the email account of FBI director Kash Patel and published personal photos and other material online. AFP

US judge blocks Trump's $1.8bn settlement fund indefinitely

Washington: A US judge indefinitely blocked a $1.8 billion "anti-weaponisation" settlement fund supported by President Donald Trump on Friday, giving the administration one week to provide a sworn statement that the fund will not go forward. US district judge Leonie Brinkema of Eastern District of Virginia said the justice department's pronouncements that the fund would not move forward were not enough to prevent the judge from ruling on whether the plan is legal.

Brinkema issued a preliminary injunction blocking the Trump administration from creating the fund while the lawsuit moves forward. The case was brought by a group of individuals and organisations who alleged they were victims of political targeting by the Trump administration and would be ineligible for compensation from the fund.

The judge said it was "problematic" that the administration sought to set up a pool of taxpayer money to favour "an extremely small group" that many Americans feel engaged in "unacceptable" conduct. REUTERS

Iranian woman among migrants deported from US to Africa

Bangui: An Iranian woman is among around two dozen migrants set to arrive Friday in the Central African Republic on a deportation flight from the US, lawyers said.

The Central African Republic, a deeply impoverished country plagued by conflict, is one of at least nine other African nations that has agreed to take third-country nationals deported by the US. Under a series of often-secret agreements that are part of a broad US crackdown on immigration, the Trump administration has deported thousands of people to nearly two dozen countries that are not their own, advocates say.

The Trump administration uses deportations to third countries as a legal loophole to indirectly force asylum seekers back to their home countries, immigration lawyers said. AP

Pak ups def spend, cuts devpt outlay, increases taxes to meet IMF targets

Islamabad: Pakistan proposed Pakistani Rupees (PKR) 18.8 trillion ($67.5 billion) budget Friday, raising defence spending, limiting development expenditure and setting a steep tax target as govt tries to keep its IMF programme on track without provoking political fallout at home.

Finance minister Muhammad Aurangzeb told parliament govt would allocate PKR 3 trillion for defence in the fiscal year starting July, up 18% from the outgoing year, while setting federal development spending at PKR 1 trillion.

The defence increase followed talks with provinces over pooling fiscal space for security needs, with provincial development plans also cut back before the budget. "Defence spending has been increased considerably to make the country invincible due to the uncertainty in the region," Aurangzeb said. The budget shows how little room Pakistan has to manoeuvre as debt payments, defence and IMF targets take priority.

AFP

A protest against rising fuel prices in Pakistan's Karachi last month. The budget comes as Pakistan faces inflationary pressure from the Iran war

Govt set a tax revenue target of PKR 15.3 trillion, up 8.2% from 14.1 trillion in the previous fiscal year, even though the Federal Board of Revenue missed its target for the outgoing fiscal year. The budget projects a federal deficit of PKR 7 trillion, while the overall fiscal deficit is targeted at PKR 5.2 trillion, or 3.6% of GDP, after a projected provincial surplus of PKR 1.8 trillion. Most of the revenue is expected to come from taxes and levies, including the petroleum levy, which are budgeted to generate PKR 20.6 trillion.

The budget, delayed by a week, comes as Pakistan faces renewed inflationary pressure from the US-Iran conflict. The surge in oil prices sparked by the war has driven inflation back into double digits just as the economy had appeared to be finding its footing. It targets economic growth of 4.0% and inflation of 8.2% for the coming fiscal year, compared with 3.7% projected growth in fiscal year 2026 and 6.7% average inflation in the July-May period of the outgoing year.

Islamabad is also seeking to keep a $7 billion IMF programme on track after avoiding default in 2023. Pakistan has agreed to target a primary budget surplus of 2% of GDP for the coming fiscal. That means govt must collect more than it spends before interest payments. Analysts say much of the adjustment is likely to fall on salaried workers and businesses already inside the tax net, as politically powerful sectors such as agriculture and real estate remain difficult to tax. US planning to slash no. of warships, fighter jets it provides to Nato: Report

US plans to reduce the number of fighter jets it supplies to Europe by one third, cut all eight aerial refuelling tankers and reduce maritime reconnaissance aircraft

Washington: The US plans to slash the number of fighter jets and warships it provides to Nato in Europe, the New York Times reported on Thursday. The reported cutbacks come as European nations race to bolster their defence capacities since Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine in 2022 sparked fears that Moscow could attack a Nato country.

US President Trump has called the alliance a "paper tiger" and its members "cowards" in frustration that they have not joined the US-Israeli war against Iran.

Washington plans to reduce the number of fighter jets it supplies to Europe by one third, cut all eight aerial refuelling tankers and reduce maritime reconnaissance aircraft, the New York Times reported, citing two unidentified senior European officials. Other assets to be reallocated include a missile-launching submarine, an aircraft carrier, a group of bomber aircraft and several jets and warships. AFP has contacted the Pentagon for comment.

The US European Command said this month that it would reassess Washington's contributions to Nato to "ensure Europe takes primary responsibility for its own conventional defence." US General Alexus Grynkewich accused Europe of "an unhealthy co-dependence" on US forces.

US secretary of state Marco Rubio said last week that President Trump will attend a Nato summit in Turkiye in July. Rubio described it as "probably the most important meeting in Nato's history, because there's some things that need to be cleared up and fixed." AFP

New Pentagon UFO file reveals glowing orbs in US Northeast

Washington: The Pentagon released a third tranche of previously classified files on alleged UFO sightings on Friday, which include reports of glowing, sometimes red, orbs seen by people in the northeastern US. The first two batches were made public on May 8 and May 22. President Donald Trump is the latest president to release US govt reports on unidentified flying objects, a disclosure process that began in the late 1970s.

Friday's release of what the Pentagon calls "unidentified anomalous phenomena" (UAP) involved 72 files from the FBI, CIA and Pentagon and includes testimony, videos and artistic depictions. Reports from several entries refer to sphere or orb sightings in the US northeast location. "These files, hidden behind classifications, have long fuelled speculation - and it's time the American people see it for themselves," Pentagon chief Pete Hegseth said. REUTERS

UK PM says he's staying put after def secy resigns

London: British PM Keir Starmer vowed Friday that he will fight to stay in office after the sudden resignation of his trusted defence minister left his shaky leadership weakened still further. Starmer told the BBC that defence is "my number one priority. And I have taken the difficult decisions to make sure that we are safe as a country". "I'm not going to go away. I don't think we should plunge the country into the chaos of a leadership election," he said. "I don't think it should happen, but if it does, then I will fight."

Starmer has seen the departure of several junior and senior ministers in recent weeks, as Labour Party lawmakers revolt and rivals plot, in despair at govt's relentless unpopularity. But the sudden resignation of defence secretary John Healey is a heavy blow. Healey quit Thursday, warning that govt is not spending enough on the military to keep Britain safe "at this time of rising threats". His departure hits Starmer in the one place the often embattled PM has won consistent praise: the world stage.

Former armed forces minister Al Carns, who quit Thursday a few hours after Healey, said it is not just a question of spending more money, but spending it wisely. He said the investment plan was not "transformative enough". "I want to see a higher percentage for uncrewed systems, AI, data - data is the new gunpowder - and we've got to move that forward if we are going to win the next war," Carns told the BBC. AP

'Taliban arrest 30 women in Af for violating hijab'

Kabul: Authorities in Afghanistan's western city of Herat arrested at least 30 women, accusing them of violating dress rules imposed by the Taliban govt, the United Nations agency for women's rights said in a statement, but added that some were later released. Thursday's statement followed a clampdown on protests against the arrests in Herat's district of Injil on Tuesday.

"The arrests have heightened fear and apprehension among women and girls across Afghanistan," UN women said, adding that many of the women had since been released. "Taliban security forces allegedly opened fire on protesters - men, women and children - administering beatings to some," it added. "At least two people, including a boy, were killed and more than 20 were injured." REUTERS

China arrests US scholar on suspicion of espionage

Bangkok: An American scholar Min Zin who writes about Myanmar and Chinese foreign policy was arrested by Chinese authorities on suspicion of spying, China's foreign ministry said Friday.

It is uncommon for Beijing to arrest an American citizen on national security allegations, and the case comes just a month after US President Donald Trump met with Chinese President Xi Jinping in Beijing as the two countries aim to reset a tumultuous relationship.

A Burmese activist who knows Min Zin said he disappeared June 3 after going to Kunming, in China's Yunnan province, for a conference. The activist, who spoke on the condition of anonymity out of fear of government retribution and arrest, said Min Zin had visited China multiple times before.

Min Zin was a student activist in Myanmar's 1988 uprising, a student-led movement that the then-government reacted to with military force. He eventually sought asylum in the US. He was not engaged in any direct activism work currently, said the activist.

Min Zin is the founder of a think tank called ISP Myanmar, which in recent years has been writing about Chinese foreign policy and trade with Myanmar, located on China's southwest border. The think tank was involved in regular exchanges with Chinese think tanks, and had published on various issues such as Myanmar's rare earth exports to China. Min Zin is also a doctoral candidate at the University of California, Berkeley. AP

China warns 'spy turtles' fishing for sea secrets

Foreign spies are fitting turtles and fish with sensors to create underwater maps of China's coastline, Beijing warned Friday in apparent reference to its Western competitors. In a social media post ominously titled "Under the deep blue, undercurrents are surging", the ministry of state security said international spy agencies are using "new types of espionage equipment" to steal sensitive marine data. "Relatively large marine animals with sensors attached have been discovered in certain waters of China," the ministry said, in a section titled "spy turtles, spy fish". The clandestine creatures were found "swimming in a specific area, collecting sensitive data about the marine environment such as water temperature, salinity and ocean current, transmitting it overseas via satellite", it said. Foreign groups also used solar-powered wave gliders, buoys with high-precision sensors, and devices loaded onto cargo ships capable of capturing "port dynamics" in real time, it added, without naming a particular agency. The data collected would be used to create "underwater maps" that can "identify weak points in China's coastal defences, posing a serious threat to China's national security", according to the ministry.

Theft of rare Russian books in France: Six Georgian nationals went on trial in Paris this week for the theft of rare editions of Russian literary classics from prestigious French libraries, including works by Alexander Pushkin. The trial is the latest case seeking justice for a spate of similar thefts in recent years from libraries across Europe, suspected to be the work of an organised network. The thefts targeted rare Russian classics worth millions of euros in total, including by 19th-century literary greats Pushkin and Nikolai Gogol. The crimes in France took place in 2023. According to investigators, the thieves went to the libraries to consult rare works, photographing and measuring them, and returned later to replace them with undetectable copies.

David Hockney, British artist who went in search of Californian colour, dies at 88

As a child growing up in gloomy northern England, David Hockney noticed the sharply defined shadows in the Hollywood films of comedy duo Laurel and Hardy. "Strong shadows meant a lot of sun," the painter recalled to BBC television in 2009. "So I thought, well, wherever that is, it's always sunny." Two decades later, Hockney moved to Los Angeles to immerse himself in that dazzling light.

The artist, whose brightly coloured renditions of California would go on to make him one of the most celebrated artists of the 20th and 21st centuries, died on Thursday, Sky News reported, citing his publicist. He was 88. No cause of death was given.

Initially, almost as much as his paintings, Hockney was known for his own image — thick-rimmed spectacles, peroxide hair, shiny gold jacket — which became a symbol of Britain's Swinging Sixties.

As an art student in the city of Bradford — where he was born to an accountancy clerk father and a devout Methodist mother — Hockney rebelled against convention. He gave titles to his abstract paintings such as "Going to be a Queen for Tonight" and "Doll Boy" at a time when homosexuality was punishable by prison.

To continue his studies, in 1959 he moved to London where he had a meteoric rise in the British pop art movement and rubbed shoulders with stars from dancer Rudolf Nureyev to Mick Jagger. But Hockney yearned for the excitement he saw in the work of American artists. Using money from the sale of his art, he visited New York for the first time in 1961 — where he became a friend of Andy Warhol — and moved to California three years later.

His 'Portrait of an Artist (Pool with Two Figures)' sold for $90.3m in 2018, the most expensive work by a living artist sold at auction at the time

"I thought people who produced such work must live in colour, so I went in search of it," he is quoted as saying in a biography written by art critic and friend Peter Adam.

"I had spent the first 20 years of my life in the gothic gloom of the North. Here I felt free." His pictures of swimming pools and naked men in showers became icons of a sun-drenched lifestyle that he documented with luminous acrylic paint before dividing his time between Los Angeles, London and Paris in the 1960s and 1970s. He remained unpretentious despite his success. "I am actually still a student," he told Adam. "I just happen to have quite a lot of credit cards in my pocket."

In 1985, when he was invited to the White House to dine with President Ronald Reagan, Prince Charles and Princess Diana, he was held up for half an hour by security because he was the only guest to arrive on foot, his biographer wrote.

Hockney's images of love, sex and material wealth led to claims by some art critics that his work was trivial. But he won greater renown than any other British artist of the 20th century. One of his most famous paintings, "Portrait of an Artist (Pool with Two Figures)" — showing a figure swimming underwater and a man gazing into the pool — sold for $90.3 million in 2018, the most expensive work by a living artist sold at auction at the time.

In the late 1990s, Hockney began returning more frequently to visit his mother in the northern English county of Yorkshire, where a terminally ill friend encouraged him to paint the local landscapes. Feeling lonely, he moved from California to the seaside town of Bridlington on England's North Sea coast. For a decade he painted clumps of bare trees in winter, fields full of ripe crops and tracks stretching towards the gentle rolling hills of the Yorkshire Wolds region. It was the most productive period of his career as he captured scenes that, he said, changed more dramatically with the seasons than did those of California.

Hockney's work ethic — instilled in him from getting up at 6am to work in hospitals, when he refused to do military service — barely relented in later years. "I tend to think that you should work every day," he said. "And I do." REUTERS

Co-hosts Mexico beat South Africa 2-0 in a drama-filled opening match of the World Cup at the Estadio Azteca on Thursday, kicking off the biggest ever edition of the global footballing showpiece. Over 80,000 emotional El Tri faithful — sombrero-sporting, Lucha Libre mask-wearing — thronged World Cup football's most hallowed stadium, braving rain and opening game jitters.

Julian Quinones scored the opening goal of the tournament after nine minutes and 35-year-old striker Raul Jimenez headed in Mexico's second goal at the Azteca, which became the first stadium in the world to host games at three World Cups.

Three players were sent off — two from South Africa and one from Mexico — in front of a capacity crowd of 80,000 spectators.

South Africa had Sphephelo Sithole dismissed for denying a goal-scoring opportunity before Themba Zwane was shown a red card for a slap. Mexico's Cesar Montes was sent off for a late foul.

Mexico coach Javier Aguirre revealed his players had overcome a serious case of first-day nerves. "When you're starting out the World Cup, of course your legs will shake," Aguirre said. "Never in 25 years had anyone had any cramps but three of them had cramps today.

"We were in awe when we saw the stadium and they got a little bit of stage fright. But we never suffered."

Mexico's victory launched a 48-team tournament also hosted by the US and Canada that will last nearly six weeks, culminating in the final in New Jersey on July 19.

Before kickoff, Colombian superstar Shakira and Nigerian singer Burna Boy performed 'Dai Dai', the official song of the tournament and Italian tenor Andrea Bocelli rounded off the opening ceremony.

There was a festive atmosphere inside the stadium, but outside dozens of protesters clashed with police.

Groups of teachers, relatives of Mexicans who have gone missing, and student activists gathered outside the stadium amid a heavy police presence. Some protesters breached barriers and traded blows with officers guarding the stadium's perimeter moments after Mexico scored their opening goal. Tens of thousands of fans crammed into a fan zone in central Mexico City to watch the game, which was also enthusiastically followed by a large crowd of fans from Los Angeles' Mexican community on giant screens at the Coliseum.

The start of the action on the pitch will come as a welcome relief to football's world governing body FIFA, which has faced stinging criticism over the eye-watering costs of tickets.

In addition, Donald Trump's immigration crackdown has seen a top referee, Iranian team officials and fans refused entry to the United States. On the eve of the tournament, FIFA president Gianni Infantino defended the organization and brushed off criticism over visa issues.

Infantino insisted that tickets — which in some cases have topped $30,000 — had been priced appropriately, citing a small number of $60 tickets made available in response to criticism.

He added: "Our average price which is below 500 dollars is again the lowest of the American sports on average."

Infantino also played down the controversy surrounding Somali World Cup referee Omar Artan, who was refused entry after arriving in Miami, suggesting reporters should "chill, relax".

US authorities said he was refused entry because he was "associated with suspected members of terrorist organizations".

Infantino also portrayed Iran's participation at the World Cup in the midst of its military conflict with the US as a victory for his organization, saying, "I don't know who else would have been able to ensure in these circumstances — which we could not influence — Iran could come and play," he said. Years after skull fracture, Jimenez earns his moment

Mexico City: Raul Jimenez finally has his star moment in a World Cup for Mexico. The 35-year-old striker burst into tears after scoring El Tri's second goal against South Africa.

It was the first World Cup goal for Jimenez, who suffered a skull fracture while playing for Wolverhampton on November 29, 2020, and had to undergo lifesaving surgery.

Within two weeks, Jimenez was back at training. He fully recovered several months later, but the injury forced him to wear protective headgear for the rest of his career.

"I read an interview where he said this has to be his World Cup," Mexico coach Javier Aguirre said, "I think he got off to a flying start. He had always been in someone else's shadow, but today he is a starter for this team — and he has truly earned it."

In March, Jimenez lost his father, Raul Jimenez Vega, at 62. "He was dealing with a personal situation that may have given him extra motivation," Aguirre said, "He even scored. A perfect day for him." AP

Red cards mar mood, tempo of opening game

Mexico City: The World Cup opener delivered a rarity when three players were sent off with red cards.

No World Cup match has had that many players ejected since a 2006 game between Portugal and the Netherlands, when four players received red cards — a World Cup record. The last World Cup in Qatar in 2022 had only four red cards in the entire tournament.

On Thursday at the Azteca, Sphephelo Sithole and Themba Zwane were sent off for South Africa while Cesar Montes was shown a red card for the co-host.

It's the first time three players have been sent off in the opening match of a World Cup — and all three were straight red cards.

The red carded players will be suspended for at least one more match.

In 2006, four red cards — two for each team — were awarded to Portugal and the Netherlands. That game in Nuremberg also had 16 yellow cards. AP

Brito, defensive mainstay of Brazil's 1970 Cup win, dies

Morristown (US): Brito, a centre back on Brazil's 1970 World Cup-winning team, has died at age 86. The Brazilian Football Confederation announced that Brito died on Thursday. It did not provide additional details.

Brito played 61 games for the national team from 1964-72, including one at the 1966 World Cup, along the way forming a strong defense alongside Wilson Piazza.

Brito was also part of Brazil teams that won the Copa Roca in '71 and the Taca Independencia in '72.

"Brito left us as one of the greatest defenders in the history of Brazilian football," the confederation's president, Samir Xaud, said in a statement. "His contribution to the 1970 World Cup victory will be eternally remembered by all of us."

"I pay my respects to this idol of our country," Xaud said, "May his fighting spirit be an inspiration to our players in this World Cup." AP

AWAITING US VISA, PALESTINIAN FOOTBALL HEAD STUCK IN MEXICO

Ramallah (West Bank): The head of the Palestinian Football Association is waiting in Mexico City for permission to enter the United States with other federation heads attending the World Cup.

Jibril Rajoub went to the opening match between Mexico and South Africa on Thursday. But he is among several people accredited to attend the World Cup who have been denied visas or have yet to receive them from the United States.

"I don't believe that it's fair to use or to abuse and deny the right of all footballers all over the world to attend," the veteran Palestinian political figure said in an interview.

The Palestinian team did not qualify for the World Cup, but FIFA typically invites the heads of football associations from around the world,as a celebration of global unity. AP

South Korea's beauty triumphs over Czech set-piece beasts

Guadalajara: It was the tale of 'Beauty and the Beast' that lit up the Estadio Guadalajara on Thursday, with South Korea's prettier, stylish football triumphing over the Czechia's rugged, route-one tactics in an adrenaline-fuelled encounter.

South Korea were more than worthy of the 2-1 win, showing their trademark indomitable spirit with a come-from-behind victory to join Mexico atop Group A, all packed into the scintillating second half of a match the Asian side dominated.

The Koreans had their game plan and stuck to it, taking it to the Czechs throughout, with silky, intricate play and precision passes that put their opponents on the back foot.

Talisman Son Heung-min got the lion's share of the chances, yet — frustratingly — none of the goals.

South Korea demonstrated their World Cup pedigree, present in 11 successive tournaments and unbeaten in qualifying with a whopping 40 goals scored, delivering on Thursday an early message of intent that a deep run could be on the cards. Son worked seamlessly with the impressive Lee Kang-in and Lee Jae-sung to create a host of first-half chances, with the trio combining darting runs through the middle with a succession of dangerous pass-and-go moves that they just could not finish.

But in a game of stark contrasts, it was the Czechs and their direct, physical play who scored first through Ladislav Krejci just before the hour with a perfectly timed header from a 35-metre, slingshot-like throw from Vladimir Coufal.

South Korea were buoyed by a largely Mexican crowd in Guadalajara that was clearly rooting for them. They kept cool heads and levelled eight minutes later, when Hwang In-beom picked up Lee Kang-in's neat through pass and turned brilliantly to fool two defenders, before deftly lifting the ball over advancing goalkeeper Matej Kovar.

They seized the momentum, going ahead after 80 minutes when Hwang turned provider with a precise low cross for substitute Oh Hyeon-gyu to turn into the net.

Strong and dangerous on almost every set-piece, the Czechs stuck with what they knew best as they pushed for an equaliser in a dramatic finish, with Adam Hlozek close to scoring from another gargantuan throw and Tomas Soucek's headed goal from a free kick disallowed for offside.

South Korea coach Hong Myung-bo commended his players for their fighting spirit and an approach that went just as he had instructed. REUTERS

HALF-EMPTY OR JUST FULL?

Empty seats are seen in the stands at the Estadio Guadalajara during the South Korea-Czechia encounter in Guadalajara on Thursday. Despite an official attendance of nearly 45,000, swathes of vacant seats were spotted in the stadium with many blaming the high ticket prices. AGENCIES

'England have belief, but overthinking can complicate things'

THOMAS TUCHEL	Age 52
Takes charge as England manager: Jan 2025

Draws 1 · Losses 2 · WIN LOSS RECORD · matches 14 · Wins 11

9 Tuchel is the first England team manager to have nine clean sheets in his first 10 games in charge.

• The World Cup will be the first major tournament for Tuchel as England manager.

"We're not the top favourites. We can't be, because we haven't won it for so, so many years. There are proven winners in the tournament with more success in recent tournaments. So, these are the favourites, and we compete for the trophy."
—Thomas Tuchel

For Thomas Tuchel, the numbers are impressive but the message is one of caution. England arrive at the World Cup after a flawless qualifying campaign, yet their German manager is reluctant to embrace the favourites tag. In this exclusive conversation, Tuchel reflects on England's long wait for World Cup glory, the challenges posed by a demanding group, and the importance of raising standards when it matters most. Excerpts...

England are considered to be one of the leading title contenders in 2026. Your views...

Well, I don't like the favourite tag. We should not be among the favourites to win the trophy since we did not win it in recent past. It was in 1966 and there are no recent memories of winning a major trophy. Those who have won it recently should be among the title contenders. But that does not mean we cannot win the tournament. Of course, we can. But we have to sacrifice a lot and play with intensity.

For sixty years now, England have had this unfulfilled dream of winning another World Cup...

We have the dream. We do have the belief in ourselves, in our abilities to perform well. And we are all ready to give our all on the field. It is always better to take the matches as they come. Overthinking can complicate proceedings. So, think positive and do what you can naturally should be the motto.

Croatia, your first opponent in this World Cup, were instrumental in England's defeat in the 2018 semifinal. Will history hang heavy?

That semifinal is past and what we shall be doing in the opening match is future. A new beginning to a campaign we want to excel at. Croatia have been consistent in world stage for the last few editions. They, led by Luka Modric, were the finalists in 2018, third in 2022. To be in the World Cup till the last week speaks volumes of the team's ability. We are ready, though. We played well in the warm-up matches. The focus is shifted to Dallas now.

England are said to be in the Group of Death, with Ghana waiting in the second match...

Yes, two tough teams to play in our first two encounters. We have to be on our toes. These are the teams that make the World Cup most competitive. If Croatia are almost impregnable, Ghana's pace and athleticism are areas of concern for all. Do not forget Panama either. They are here to surprise everybody. We have to be confident with the ball as well as without the ball.

Under you, England have had a perfect qualifying round, conceding not a single goal while scoring 22...

We were in Group K with Albania, Serbia, Latvia and Andorra. Our players performed brilliantly. They scored whenever they got the opportunity and defended without mistakes. Yes, that was perfect. But to continue doing so in the final phase will be very difficult.

Your captain Harry Kane is probably in the form of his life...

At the moment, he is probably the most dangerous player in front of the opposition goal. We are so happy that he represents us; our defenders don't have to face him! In football, great strikers have an uncanny ability to find the perfect time to run, beat the offside track and score. Kane is a living example. As a leader, too, he is an excellent motivator.

What are the areas you want to improve on as a team?

I need the team to push it to the next level. It was a near-perfect qualification. We played well in the warmup matches too. Now is the time to step up, increase the intensity and execute the plans on the field. ■ PMG

England squad must feel 'loved' at World Cup, says Jude

Kansas City: Jude Bellingham says every member of England's squad must feel "loved" as he admitted things were not right off the pitch at Euro 2024. Gareth Southgate's men reached the final of the tournament in Germany, where they were beaten by Spain, but were unconvincing during their run.

Real Madrid midfielder Bellingham told England's Lions' Den show that things were "a little bit wrong off the pitch" at the Euros two years ago.

"I don't feel like the group connected as well as it could have for a number of reasons," he said.

Bellingham suggested heightened expectations were a factor after strong performances in previous tournaments. "We were seen as one of the two or three teams that should win it," said the 22-year-old. AGENCIES

ANCELOTTI LAUNCHES BRAZIL'S QUEST FOR HEXA

Vinicius To Lead Attack Against Morocco As Team Seeks Sixth World Cup Crown

East Rutherford (New Jersey): Brazil begin their latest hunt for a long-awaited sixth World Cup crown early on Sunday with little room for a gentle landing, facing up-and-coming Morocco in a Group C opener that will test the side's ability to cope with a lengthy injury list. The record five-time winners arrive in North America under Carlo Ancelotti, who has taken on one of football's most demanding rescue missions. Brazil have endured three turbulent years, four managers and a series of disappointments while Neymar's long decline from untouchable talisman to fitness gamble has added uncertainty.

Brazil start against what is expected to be their sternest Group C test. Morocco were the great disruptors of the 2022 World Cup in Qatar, knocking out Spain and Portugal before losing to France in the semi-finals. Built around a generation of players shaped in the academies and leagues of Spain and France, they return with enough quality to make Brazil's opening night uncomfortable. However, they also arrive with turbulence of their own.

Morocco began 2026 by losing the Africa Cup of Nations final to Senegal on home soil, only to be later awarded the title in a controversial punishment for their rivals' walking off the pitch in protest at a penalty awarded against them. Weeks later, long-serving coach Walid Regragui quit three months before the World Cup and was replaced by Belgian-born Mohamed Ouahbi, promoted from the youth set-up after guiding Morocco to the under-20 World Cup title in Chile last year.

Injuries have added to the disruption, with Nayef Aguerd and Abde Ezzalzouli cut from the 26-man squad after being hurt in Morocco's friendly against Norway.

Brazil, however, have suffered their own medical avalanche.

Ancelotti has lost Rodrygo, Estevao, Eder Militao and Wesley, all potential starters, while injured Neymar has been ruled out of the Morocco match. Brazil still boast a formidable centre back pairing in Marquinhos and Gabriel Magalhaes, but Ancelotti must improvise at right back after losing Wesley and versatile Militao. Danilo and Ibanez are competing for the role, with midfielder Ederson also an option.

Further forward, Ancelotti will lean on Vinicius Jr, whom he helped develop at Real Madrid into one of the game's most devastating attackers. Brazil never slip quietly into a World Cup, but expectations are unusually restrained. Morocco will test whether Ancelotti's club alchemy can travel — and whether Qatar's great fairytale has a sequel. REUTERS

"WHAT REALLY MATTERS IS THE CONDITION YOU ARE BEFORE THE FIRST GAME. WE ARE READY. THIS LAST CYCLE WAS HARD, WE FELT IT DEEPLY. BUT EVERYTHING STARTED TO GET BETTER ONCE ANCELOTTI ARRIVED. HE HAS A VERY STRONG PRESENCE IN THE GROUP."

76 Brazil hold the all-time records for most matches won and most goals scored (237) in FIFA World Cup history.

17 Brazil have not lost their opening fixture at a FIFA World Cup edition since a 3-1 reverse against Spain in 1934. They have won 17 and drawn three of their subsequent tournament curtain-raisers.

1 Morocco, also known as the Atlas Lions, are unbeaten in their last four World Cup group-stage matches (W2 D2) and are aiming to win three in a row after having triumphed in their last two in Qatar in 2022.

Haiti made the grade, but its fans aren't welcome

New York: When Haiti line up against Scotland early on Sunday, their players will be representing the Caribbean nation at a World Cup for the first time since 1974.

They will also embody the complexities and possibilities of Haiti and its diaspora. Of the 26 players selected for the squad, only 10 were born in Haiti. And just one, Woodensky Pierre, plays for a Haitian club was kept waiting for a US visa.

Twelve were born in France of Haitian parents, one in Canada, one in Switzerland and two in the United States. Haiti's men's football team overcame incredible odds to make it to the World Cup . Its fans aren't so lucky. Citizens of the troubled Caribbean nation are barred from entering the US. And for the Haitians already there, the tournament takes place as the White House moves to revoke their right to stay in the country, potentially affecting some 350,000 people. As such, Haiti's national team hasn't played a home game since 2021, and most of its players are scattered throughout the US and Europe, with few opportunities to practice together.

Pierre, the only member of Haiti's team based in the country, was kept waiting for a US visa. Brazil and Morocco are also in Group C, putting pressure on Les Grenadiers under French coach Sebastien Migne and Steve Clarke's Scotland to take all three points at the Boston Stadium. AGENCIES

'Starting with loss makes journey more difficult'

Manuel Neuer is preparing for a remarkable fifth World Cup. The legendary goalkeeper, a cornerstone of Germany's 2014 triumph in Brazil, has come out of retirement for one final challenge. In this exclusive interview, Neuer reflects on Germany's disappointing exits in the last two World Cups and the responsibility of guiding a new generation. Excerpts...

TOI Print Exclusive

Why did you decide to come out of retirement to play for Germany again in a World Cup?
For the same reasons I decided to extend my contract with Bayern Munich for one more year. My body felt well to sustain pressures of a big match; mentally I could motivate myself to be on the field and could do what I should. Basically, I felt happy and hungry again. So, when I had a chat with the national coach (Julian Nagelsmann), I said I was ready to play again for my country.

What does a World Cup at the age of 40-plus mean to you?
Everything that meant when I played my first! It's a World Cup and to be able to play for my country in the greatest tournament is the biggest motivation. There is nothing more exciting than playing in the World Cup. Footballers always dream to play one while this will be my fifth! I am really happy to be part of the side again at the biggest stage.

Having won the trophy in 2014, Germany bowed out of the next two World Cup editions in the first round. Your thoughts on this...
We could not play well enough to qualify for the knockout round. Both in Russia and Qatar, we lost a few matches which we should not, conceded goals, failed to score more goals. We all tried our best, no questions, but it did not click. In both the editions, we made a losing start against Mexico and Japan and that made the task more difficult.

That means your opening match this time against Curacao is more important than ever...
Opening matches are always important. I do know that there are instances when a team has won the World Cup even after losing the first match, but it makes the journey difficult. All the remaining matches suddenly become a final! Curacao will be making their debut in the tournament against us. They will be too motivated to do well. We have to be at our best.

How do you rate your other two opponents in the group, Ivory Coast and Ecuador?
Both are risky teams to face. The battles will be more mental than physical. African and South American opponents always create problems for any team. There will be a few individual talents who can decide the match in a flash while they will continue to defend deep. Interesting tactical battles expected.

You are the lone survivor of the 2014 winning team now in the German squad...
We have a new squad with few generational talents. The younger ones in the team will try to prove their worth under the guidance of few experienced players. The coach is young, energetic, full of exciting ideas. We all will be working towards the common goal to ensure German football reach new heights.

Germany is the only European nation to win the World Cup in South America. Can they do so in North America?
Why not? Germany has a rich football history, especially in World Cup. We have four stars already. Whenever we take part in any tournament, we always aim to be the champions. Everyone knows that is not at all easy. And World Cup is the toughest of them all. But the ambition is and always will be higher as far as German football is concerned. ■ PMG

Spotlight on Rohit as ODIs begin

Arani.Basu@timesofindia.com

Dharamshala: It's not often that one finds Rohit Sharma playing a passive role in a team environment. On Friday evening here, he was seen strolling around centre square, casually juggling fielding drills while the others had a more focused session before hitting the nets. Rohit has never been the most energetic or agile on the field but his presence always commanded authority. The familiar banter was missing.

PREVIEW

The ODI World Cup in South Africa is still 15 months away but the audition for places in the Indian team will be under way with the three-match ODI series against Afghanistan starting here on Saturday. A 39-year-old Rohit, with 282 ODIs, 33 centuries and 11, 577 runs to his name, is now fighting to justify his place in the team and convince the team management that he will physically be able to endure the rigours of high-pressure sport.

Tarun Rawat

BACK IN BUSINESS: Rohit Sharma (right) with captain Shubman Gill

The concerns have multiplied after Rohit missed a big chunk of matches for Mumbai Indians due to a hamstring injury this season.

Head coach Gautam Gambhir, meanwhile, was literally in captain Shubman Gill's ears once he was done with his batting in the nets. Rohit quietly moved into the nets at the centre square for a second stint of batting. When everyone else in the team wrapped up the session, Rohit decided to practice his slip catching with fielding coach T Dilip before Ishan Kishan joined him to hone his wicketkeeping skills.

This can't be a pleasant scenario for young captain like Gill either. Leading up to the previous World Cup, it was captain Rohit who preferred Gill's youthful exuberance over an experienced Shikhar Dhawan. Gill now has to decide if he wants to give a run to the young Yashasvi Jaiswal to open with him, instead of an ageing Rohit.

On Friday evening, Gill eventually walked up to Rohit for a short conversation after checking the pitch before leaving for the team hotel. Every time Rohit's name came up in the pre-match press conference, India's bowling coach dismissed the discussion, saying, "Rohit is moving well and training well. He has passed all the fitness tests. His presence calms the dressing room." It's unfair to judge anyone's form going by the nets session. But the rustiness in his batting was evident.

Williamson calls it a day

Vishal.Menon@timesofindia.com

As a cricketer, Kane Williamson, 35, never sought the spotlight, seemed uncomfortable with adulation and preferred to let his bat do the talking. Fittingly, there was no grand farewell and no soul-stirring speech when he retired. Just a terse two-line statement. "I've thought about it for a while, but over the last two days it's become clear that now is the right time. I've always felt a strong drive and hunger for international cricket and I take pride in knowing I've given it all in every match I've played for New Zealand," Williamson said in a statement released by New Zealand Cricket on Friday.

Williamson's greatness was his humility and an unwavering commitment to the team. Whether in victory or defeat — most memorably after the heartbreak of the 2019 World Cup final loss — he carried himself with remarkable poise. His teammates admired his calm, zen-like leadership while opponents respected his sportsmanship. As Williamson brings the curtains down on an illustrious career, he showcased that in an era increasingly defined by noise and clutter, excellence can also be understated.

Indian shooting's original prodigy

Tushar.Dutt@timesofindia.com

Pune: Jaspal Rana never shied away from two things: Fearless shooting and straight talk. For more than three decades, he practiced both with remarkable consistency.

At an age when any youngster would be thinking of playing safe in order to build a career, Jaspal not just risked it all by challenging the system that wasn't athlete-friendly, but also won medals and broke records to make sure the noise wasn't hollow and there was substance to it. Jaspal, a name that brought shooting into prominence, defined a generation and personified courage, died of a heart attack in the Capital on Friday, 16 days short of his 50th birthday.

RANA (1976-2026)

He will not just be remembered for his medals or coaching credentials, but also for the fact that he was the first to make everyone believe that Indian shooters could win international medals.

The trailblazer of Indian shooting, who was known to stand up for athletes' rights even at a time when there were none, will be remembered for challenging the status quo, of never being afraid of questioning the authorities and being unapologetically direct.

He could be abrasive, stubborn and controversial, yet even his strongest critics would feel that if Jaspal picked a fight, it was usually over something that mattered to the athletes. In an era when silence was safer, confrontation became his preferred language. In Jaspal's case, it won't be an overstatement that it was the sport that chose him and not otherwise.

PTI

A prodigy who shone at the shooting ranges when kids of his age were busy learning to balance on their bicycles, Jaspal won silver at his first Nationals at the age of 12. The Uttarkashi-born shooter stood out by winning Asian Games gold at the age of 18 — at Hiroshima 1994 — nine Commonwealth Games gold and six others and then as the sport picked up in India, he experienced somewhat of a slump.

Just as he was being written off, Jaspal stormed back into our consciousness with three gold and a silver, including a world record at the Asian Games gold in Doha in 2006. That late streak would also prove his closing statement as a shooter. As Gagan Narang wrote in his social media post, "some names you grow up chasing, this was one of them", Jaspal made Indian shooters believe they can be like him, a winner, a rebel and a pioneer, who would carve his own niche at a time when shooters were perceived as mere travellers and not winners.

Lately, one would spot him at the shooting ranges sitting behind his wards, just looking at the targets and occasionally at the shooters.

He would rarely speak to the shooters during the process as he often said, "if you feel you could teach something new to the shooters at this stage, you would be a fool".

Since 2012, he was key in giving shape to the juniors development programme of the National Rifle Association of India and identified, trained, prepared shooters like Manu Bhaker, Anish Bhanwala, Saurabh Chaudhary and Chinki Yadav. Though he participated in the 1996 Olympics in 10m air pistol and 50m pistol, Olympics would elude him as his chief event, centre fire pistol was not an Olympic event. His dream would be realised in terrific fashion by his ward Manu at the Paris Games in 2024.

His relationship with Manu was once famously tempestuous, had its shares of ups and downs, but when the duo decided to bury the hatchet and come back together, it became a mission that Jaspal wanted to succeed at with an almost ascetic zeal.

Ships likely carried Iran crude: US

US forces also struck MT Marivex, said to be a "sanctioned tanker", and 24 Indian crew members affected in the attack were rescued by Omani forces. No details were available on the US strike on MV Jalveer which also had an Indian complement.

US Centcom has confirmed the attacks, describing them as "precision" strikes on engine rooms after the vessels allegedly violated the US blockade of Iranian ports. They were suspected of carrying Iranian oil and "repeatedly failed to comply with directions" from American forces, it said. According to US accounts, an F-18 Super Hornet fighter jet from the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln "fired a precision munition into the ship's engineering and steering spaces" to disable the vessels.

Govt said ITBP HQ was near family's home

On May 15, the state govt issued him a notice to leave the country within 24 hours; he received this notice on June 2 and subsequently challenged the order.

Guglani said, "The notice sent to my client did not state any reason or grounds for asking him to leave the country within 24 hours. It merely mentioned that an email regarding this had been received from the Union home ministry."

The govt submitted that ITBP headquarters is close to the family's home, which could raise national security concerns.

CRITICAL SUPPORT

New Delhi: Amid concerns over shortages of two critical cancer medicines, National Pharmaceutical Pricing Authority has approved a 50% hike in ceiling prices of Carboplatin and Cisplatin injections, citing escalating raw material costs and supply concerns.

The regulator has also revised prices of anti-tetanus immunoglobulin and three key childhood vaccines to ensure their continued availability. The decision, for which a gazette notification has been issued, was taken at NPPA's 147th meeting on Thursday, where the authority invoked its extraordinary powers under Para 19 of the Drug Price Control Order (DPCO), 2013, to revise prices of formulations considered critical for public health.

NPPA said concerns over hortages of Carboplatin and Cisplatin had been raised on multiple platforms and manufacturers had reported sharp increases and volatility in prices of active pharmaceutical ingredients. The authority said it had also held discussions with manufacturers to address supply concerns and ensure continued availability of the drugs.

Carboplatin and Cisplatin are among the most widely used chemotherapy medicines and are used in first-line treatment for several cancers. The regulator said while affordability remained important, access to life-saving medicines could not be jeopardised by making their production commercially unviable.

Accordingly, the ceiling price of Carboplatin 10 mg/ml injection has been increased from Rs 60.49 per ml to Rs 90.74 per ml, while the ceiling price of Cisplatin 1 mg/ml injection has been revised from Rs 7.26 per ml to Rs 10.89 per ml. The revised prices will be reviewed after six months, or earlier if required. The authority also approved a one-time 50% increase in ceiling prices of anti-tetanus immunoglobulin 250 IU and 500 IU injections after manufacturers flagged viability concerns.

In addition, NPPA revised ceiling prices of BCG, measles and measles-rubella vaccines, citing their public health importance and the limited number of manufacturers.

Of the 82 applications seeking upward price revisions under Para 19 of DPCO, only four formulations were approved, while 78 were deferred for additional information. The regulator said the move aimed to prevent shortages and ensure supplies of life-saving medicines and vaccines.

CM: Improving outcomes is new challenge

It will especially benefit students from economically weaker sections and girls, Odisha chief minister Mohan Charan Majhi said.

Emphasising the need for quality education, the CM said literacy was no longer the primary challenge, but improving learning outcomes. He criticised the previous BJD govt, alleging it focused more on cosmetic changes than substantive reforms.

The Odisha CM said Odisha govt has taken two key steps: implementing the National Education Policy 2020 and setting up the Godabarish Mishra Model Primary School in every panchayat. Of the 2,200 schools planned in the first phase, foundation stones have been laid for 322.

Majhi added that 26,615 teaching and non-teaching staff have been recruited in the past two years, with plans to hire 45,000 more over the next three years.

Fresh graves seen at funeral unravel double murder plot

Rashmi.Drolia @timesofindia.com

Raipur: When villagers in Gariba in Chhattisgarh's Gariyaband district arrived at the cremation ground to bury a deceased resident this week, something didn't add up. Beside the spot prepared for the funeral lay two freshly dug graves. The soil was still damp and loosely packed, as if the earth had been turned only days earlier.

"Whose graves are these," someone asked.

Nobody seemed to have an answer. What puzzled the villagers was simple: nobody else in the village had died.

Soon, another question surfaced. A tribal couple from the village, Rajaram Netam and his wife Asho Bai, who had not been seen for several days, were still missing.

The buzz soon reached police. On Thursday, police exhumed two bodies stuffed into one sack from the graves, exposing a double murder that investigators say had been concealed for nearly a week.

The victims, identified as Rajaram Netam, 45, and his wife Asho Bai, 40, were allegedly beaten to death on June 6 following a long-running family dispute, according to police.

Investigators said the accused then packed the bodies into sacks and secretly buried them at the village cremation ground.

Police probe revealed disturbing details. The key accused turned out to be Rajaram's brother Lakhiram, who was allegedly helped by his sons Raghuram and Nakul Ram. All three have been arrested.

Police said Rajaram was one of seven brothers and had frequent disputes over land and property with members of the extended family. The couple had no children and lived in the family settlement.

An argument on June 6 escalated into violence, during which the accused attacked the couple with wooden sticks, causing fatal injuries, police said.

Case against Ambani under spl team of ED

Doshi was earlier arrested in 2011 by CBI in its 2G spectrum scam case and was behind bars for seven months before he was granted bail.

ED's case against Ambani and his group entities and associates is handled by a special investigation team constituted at the agency's headquarters in Dehi.

In March, CBI had registered a fresh anti-corruption FIR against Seth and Doshi for bank fraud of over Rs 100 crore, and had also searched their premises in Mumbai. The agency had also questioned the three executives on a complaint filed by SBI, which was the lead bank in a consortium of 11 banks that had lent to Reliance Telecom.

Seth served as managing director of Ambani's Reliance Communications and was also vice-chairman of Reliance Infrastructure Ltd and a board member of Reliance Telecom Ltd (RTL). Doshi was group managing director and a board member of RTL. Jhunjhunwala, who was the first to be arrested by ED, was also a group MD and served as vice-chairman of Reliance Capital.

Jhunjhunwala, before his arrest, was an independent fund manager with operations in Dubai and Singapore, while Seth was engaged in real estate and software ventures. Doshi was involved with a tax and mergers & acquisitions advisory firm, in addition to serving on the boards of major companies such as Sterlite Industries, Sun Pharma, Suzlon Energy and Piramal Enterprises, according to the spokesperson.

In April, the agency had attached Ambani's family properties worth Rs 3,035 crore, including a flat in Usha Kiran building in Mumbai and a farmhouse in Khandala (Pune) in its money laundering case against Reliance Communications.

Kol fire: EC engrs to check each EVM to assess damage

The EVMs stored in the building were used at polling booths in Kasba, Jadavpur, Behala East, Behala West and several constituencies under the Diamond Harbour subdivision in the recent assembly elections. Police and forensic teams are collecting samples from the site, after which EC engineers will examine each EVM individually to assess the damage.

Under EC rules, after the election results are declared, ballot units (BUs) and control units (CUs) are sealed in their carrying cases in the presence of candidates or their representatives. VVPAT slips are removed from the VVPAT machines and sealed separately in black envelopes. The BUs, CUs, VVPAT slips and other election materials are then stored in strongrooms until the 45-day deadline for filing election petitions expires. If an election petition is filed before the high court, the units concerned are preserved until the final disposal of the case. "If any EVM is damaged in the fire, the situation could turn complicated," an EC official said.

Suspicions were raised about a possible involvement of four persons, who left the building before office hours on Wednesday. However, a police officer said initial questioning of the four did not reveal anything suspicious.

Team is also mapping brains affected by rabies, dementia

The atlas, which spans brains from the prenatal period through adulthood, is available for free at anchor.humanbrain.in. "These maps will help identify specific cell populations affected in brainstem lesions, which could be critical for clinical applications," said Ajay Kumar Sood, principal scientific advisor to govt of India.

ANCHOR was unveiled at the 3rd BRICS Neuroscience Symposium at IIT-M, held from June 5-7. The institute collaborated with CMC Vellore, Govt Kilpauk Medical College, Sri Ramachandra Institute of Higher Education and Research, and MediScan Systems.

The atlas is the latest advance from the Sudha Gopalakrishnan Brain Centre at IIT-M which, in Dec 2024, released DHARANI — a detailed atlas of the human fetal brain that became a large publicly accessible digital dataset. Researchers froze five fetal brains from pregnancies that did not go to term, sliced them into slivers a tenth the width of a human hair and spent nearly a year digitally stitching each brain back together. When imported equipment ran short during the Covid-19 lockdown, the team built the technology themselves. The team is also mapping brains affected by rabies, dementia and Alzheimer's disease.
